

Crash Claims 7 Lives

Air Force Cargo Plane Misses Homes

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A C-124 cargo plane coming in for an emergency landing crashed just short of the runway at Richards-Gebaur Air Force Base near Kansas City Tuesday, killing all seven crewmen.

The four-engine craft crashed in to a marshy field, missing a row of suburban residences by a quarter of a mile. Housewives ran outside in the chill in time to see a column of dirt and blue smoke rising from the wreckage.

Construction workers in the area hurried through the boggy mud and snow to see if they could help any survivors. There were none.

The dead were Air Force Reservists who had been recalled to active duty in the recent call-up. Their names: Maj. Jacob T. Battemberg, the pilot, Raytown, Mo.; Capt. Brodie Bryant, Independence, Mo.; Capt. Bobby E. Wunsch, Goddard, Kan.; 1st Lt. Warren R. High, Kansas City; M. Sgt. DeWitt F. Edgar, Pineland, Tex.; M. Sgt. Garland C. Van Meter, Belton, Mo., and Airman 1c Dale R. Willert, Kansas City. Their deaths left 10 children fatherless.

Capt. Bobby E. Wunsch is the son of the former Mrs. Ruth Stephens of the Green Ridge area, and a nephew of Paul Stephens, Star Route, Sedalia. He has a twin brother, Capt. Bill Wunsch, stationed at the Richards-Gebaur AFB. Capt. Bobby Wunsch moved to Goddard, Kan., several years ago, leaving many relatives and friends in this area.

The Globemaster developed engine trouble after taking off for Charleston, S.C., and had circled to attempt a landing when it plunged to earth. Gasoline leaked from the wreckage but there was no fire. The mud hampered efforts to reach the site.

The plane was attached to the 442nd troop carrier wing at the base. The 442nd, a reserve outfit, was called up Oct. 1.

An Air Force investigating team led by Gen. Walter C. Sweeney, commander of the Tactical Air Command, arrives today to head an inquiry into the accident.

One of the area housewives, Mrs. Esther Manning, yanked open her front door when she heard the sound of the motors. "I saw the plane almost on the ground," she said. "It hit the ground and slid to one side. I saw black smoke or dust rising up."

Chances Slim For Recovery Of Monkey

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — An Atlas missile took a tiny Rhesus monkey named Scatback on a 600-mile ride into space but chances appeared slim today that the little fellow will be recovered.

A ship bucked heavy seas in the south Atlantic Ocean searching for the capsule containing Scatback.

Officials expressed hope the capsule bearing the four-pound animal would be found, but admitted the odds were not good. It may have sunk in the rough water, with waves running seven to nine feet high.

Scatback, with a radio transmitter and biomedical sensors imbedded under the skin, was in the capsule attached to the side of an Atlas which blazed away from the Cape at 10:32 Tuesday night.

The Atlas worked with perfection, unleashing the capsule on a 15,000 m.p.h. ballistic course six minutes after launching.

Less than 30 minutes later, the capsule, a 6-foot-long cylinder, plummeted into the intended impact zone more than 6,000 miles down range. A flotation bag was to give it buoyancy.

The package carried a radio beacon and flashing lights to help searchers zero in on it.

Two planes and the range vessel Sword Knot comprised the recovery fleet. The aircraft had to abandon the hunt after about three hours because they were running low on fuel.

Officials said it may take several days to analyze radio signals relayed on the monkey's condition during the flight.

New Register Deadline For Communists

Third And Last Deadline Is Midnight Tonight

WASHINGTON (AP) — The members of the U.S. Communist party—more than 10,000 by FBI estimates—have until midnight tonight to register as agents of a foreign power.

They are expected to follow their officers' lead and ignore this third—and last—deadline. If they do, the Justice Department could try to send them to jail. When the party itself ignored a Nov. 20 deadline to register with the attorney general and the leaders did the same Nov. 30, the Justice Department got an indictment against the party.

If convicted, the party could be fined $10,000 for each day of non-registration. Officers and members are subject to the same penalty, plus five years in prison for each day of violation.

The registrations were required by the Internal Security Act of 1950, upheld by the Supreme Court earlier this year after a 10-year legal battle.

Party officials had declared well in advance that they would not comply with the registration provisions of the act. They also require the disclosure of party printing press locations, financial contributions and expenses.

After a federal grand jury returned a 12-count indictment against the party Dec. 1 in Washington the party pleaded innocent to the charges of failing to register as an agent of the Soviet Union. A trial is scheduled to begin Feb. 1.

The Justice Department, in acting against the party, asked for direct grand jury action. A more elaborate procedure would have to be followed for indictment of individual members.

Each member must be formally accused before the Subversive Activities Control Board of belonging to the party and the board must then order him to register. This order is subject to full review by the courts.

No Danger To Health In Fallout

AEC Reports On Fallout From All Tests Since '45

WASHINGTON (AP) — Radiation exposure tests since 1945—including the Soviet Union's recent bursts—will remain within acceptable health limits, the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission says.

The AEC Tuesday, in the most detailed account yet on fallout from nuclear tests, reported: The fission or fallout producing yield—not the explosive force—of the Soviet Union's recent test series was 25 megatons and raised to 50 megatons the fission yield of all Soviet tests. This was compared with 35 megatons for American and British tests combined.

The amount of long-lived fallout products—strontium 90 and cesium 137—which eventually may be deposited on the United States from the 1961 Soviet tests would be "equal to or a little more" than that from American and British tests.

The amount of such long-lived fallout products which may be deposited on the United States from all Soviet tests, including the 1961 series, would be twice that from all past American and British tests.

The AEC study, given by Dr. Gordon M. Dunning, deputy director of the AEC's Division of Operational Safety, also reported on how this accumulation of fallout from all past tests would affect children.

A "rough estimate" indicates that the radiation dose over 70 years to the bones of children born in 1962 may be only one-fiftieth of the dose listed by the Federal Radiation Council as an acceptable guide for "normal peacetime operations." About 40 per cent of this dose would be expected to come from the 1961 Soviet tests.

Radioactive strontium is the fallout product that is feared as a "bone-seeker." If enough were deposited, it could cause bone cancer.

Guard Unit Rallies to Aid Of Pettis County Family

National Guard units stand ready to perform their mission in time of national emergencies and during the aftermath of natural and man made disasters. The 35th Administration Company, a Sedalia National Guard unit is no exception. This year, to go one step farther, as Christmas approaches, the unit is extending a helping hand to a destitute Pettis County family of eight.

The idea was brought up by a member of the unit at a recent drill period and received unanimous support.

The Pettis County Welfare Office was contacted and the largest family that could be adopted

New Bank Addition To Open Thursday

The Sedalia Bank and Trust Company will open its two new drive-in windows on Thursday. This will give the bank three drive-in windows, a second one in the building proper, and one on the "island."

The drive-in windows are for making deposits, cashing checks and making small change only. Other business such as Christmas savings, note payments, and savings accounts must be transacted in the building.

For the time being Mrs. Mary Lou Alexander will have charge of the island drive-in window and Mrs. Nadine Donohue will be in charge of the new window in the building.

Maintenance On 2 Roads Up to State

County Roads F and JJ Are Two Involved

Two more Pettis County roads now designated as Temporary State Routes F and JJ have been given permanent state highway status by action of the State Highway Commission at its December meeting in Jefferson City.

Route F begins at U.S. Route 65, about five miles south of Sedalia and runs west for 1.8 miles.

Route JJ begins at Route E, about five miles northeast of Beaman, and extends north for 1.7 miles along the Pettis - Cooper county lines.

These Routes F and JJ sections are former Pettis county roads taken over by the Commission for maintenance as temporary state routes, Route F on Sept. 1, 1955, and Route JJ on Sept. 1, 1956, under the terms of the 10-year state highway modernization and expansion program. Their elevation to permanent status has been made possible because local authorities have made right of ways available, without cost to the state, a program requirement.

Roads F and JJ are among a total of 23 former Pettis county roads totaling 109.7 miles which have been taken over by the state for maintenance under the

Ailing After Stroke

Elderly Kennedy Is Better Today

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—President Kennedy's ailing father, hospitalized with a stroke that caused partial paralysis, was somewhat improved this morning. And there definitely will be a meeting between the President and Prime Minister Harold Macmillan of Britain Thursday.

Mail Volume Hits Record This Week

392,200 Pieces Of Mail Handled In Two Days Here

The Sedalia post office handled the largest load of mail in its history Monday and Tuesday, as the 1961 Christmas mail hit its peak. Postmaster Maurice Hogan reported today. Volume was up 10 per cent this year over the same period last year.

The record local mail volume was handled with fewer employees than ever before under new programs which emphasize overtime benefits for regular career employees of the Sedalia post office, with a minimum use of inexperienced Christmas temporary helpers, Hogan noted.

This area's record mail load was in keeping with the trend over the nation. The postmaster said he had been advised by the Post Office Department headquarters in Washington, D.C., that more than one billion pieces of mail . . . an all-time record . . . were handled nationally by the nation's 35,000 post offices during these two days.

Delivery of Christmas cards this year featured a nation-wide use of an "all-in-one" home delivery—with all mail for the day delivered to homes in a single delivery, instead of the system of previous years "in which residents would have Christmas helpers running over their lawns several times a day delivering a few cards at a time."

In addition to the greater economy and efficiency of all-in-one deliveries, this year's holiday mail handling program at the local office has featured more pay for regular, full-time career employees and a lesser use of inexperienced Christmas temporary employees.

This year's two-day record of all classes of mail, incoming and outgoing, totaling 392,000 pieces locally was handled with only 10 temporaries, compared with 26 last year. Twenty per cent fewer temporaries have been used over the nation with millions of dollars in extra wages going to regular employees in overtime. Despite overtime the Postal Service is achieving greater economy this

White House press secretary Pierre Salinger told reporters, however, that there is a possibility the conference may be shifted from Bermuda to Palm Beach.

He said Macmillan, who arrived in Bermuda today, has been in touch with the chief executive and places himself at the President's disposal. A decision on the site of the conference will be reached late today on the basis of a report at that time from physicians attending 73-year-old Joseph P. Kennedy, one-time ambassador to Britain.

One doctor said the patient has "a slight paralysis of the left side," but he said the elder Kennedy was better than when he entered St. Mary's Hospital yesterday and better than he was last night.

Announcement that the Kennedy-Macmillan conference will go on came just before the President left the oceanfront mansion in Palm Beach where he is staying to drive to the hospital several miles away in West Palm Beach.

The elder Kennedy was reported able to recognize his youngest son, Edward, in his hospital room this morning, and also his young niece, Ann Gargan. Both had spent the night at St. Mary's Hospital where Kennedy was rushed by ambulance Tuesday afternoon after he was stricken while playing golf.

Salinger, talking to reporters at 9 a.m., said only that "the ambassador spent a good night. He is somewhat improved."

Doctors said Tuesday night that it would be 24 to 48 hours before they know more about the elder Kennedy's chances.

Dr. William T. Foley, a New York specialist on blood vessel obstruction, arrived at the hospital shortly before 9 a.m. to examine Kennedy a second time. He had examined him the first time shortly after flying from New York Tuesday night.

Members of the family, including the President and his wife, gathered at the hospital. They prayed in its small white chapel. Four doctors were attending the elder Kennedy.

Cars Delivered Here After 'Wrong Turn' By Truck Driver

W. A. Smith Motors here has received an order of four new cars and the apologies of a red-faced truck driver who took the load of autos from Kansas City to Salina, Kan.

The 400-mile trip in the wrong direction caused only a one day delay in receiving the cars invoiced for Sedalia, a spokesman for the Smith firm said. The incident occurred in recent weeks but did not come to light until Tuesday.

The vehicles were unloaded in Salina before the mistake in destination was noted.

Stevenson And Zorin Break Debate Deadlock

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — In a rare show of unanimity, the U.N. General Assembly today gave its approval to compromise plans to launch negotiations on both disarmament and the peaceful uses of outer space.

The two plans, previously adopted by the assembly's main political committee, were ratified without debate as the 104-nation body drove toward its Christmas recess deadline set for midnight.

Many delegates had declared during the long committee debate on disarmament that action to get the stalled negotiations going again was the major task before the assembly.

The deadlock was broken when U.S. Delegate Adlai E. Stevenson and Soviet Delegate Valerian A. Zorin agreed that the negotiations should be carried on in a new 18-nation committee. The assembly added eight countries to the 10-member body which had tried unsuccessfully to work out a disarmament plan in Geneva.

The resolution urged resumed negotiations at the earliest possible time, with a report not later than next June 1.

The outer space proposal called for a broad program of cooperation in exploring outer space, declared all celestial bodies under the jurisdiction of international law and ruled out any claims of national sovereignty over celestial bodies.

Agreement on this also involved expansion of the existing outer space committee to give more representation to Communist and nonaligned countries. Communist Mongolia and three African countries were added to the 24-nation committee.

The weary delegates Tuesday night pushed through a number of important resolutions including one condemning Portugal for refusing to give the United Nations information on its overseas territories.

Congo Chiefs Open Long Awaited Talks

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—Katanga President Moise Tshombe and Congolese Premier Cyrille Adoula opened their long-awaited negotiations to end the secession of Katanga today after warming the icy political atmosphere with friendly embraces and reminiscing.

The two political enemies got down to business in a conference room of the hospital of the U.N.'s Kitona military base, near the mouth of the Congo River. In secret conversations they hoped to resolve the explosive issues separating Tshombe's wealthy province from the impoverished rest of the Congo.

Adoula and Tshombe met Tuesday to make preliminary arrangements. It was their first meeting in months. They astonished U.N. and American diplomats as they sat together on a couch for 20 minutes, laughing, swapping stories and slapping each other on the leg.

In Elisabethville, the Katanga capital, there was a new flareup of fighting Tuesday. The United Nations said sniping by civilians and mercenaries had forced its troops to occupy several installations of the big Belgian mining company, the Union Miniere de Haut Katanga. Three U.N. Ethiopian soldiers were reported wounded.

With U.N. forces in nominal control of Elisabethville after two weeks of battling Tshombe's white-led Katangan troops, Acting U.N. Secretary-General U Thant had ordered his soldiers to hold their fire for the duration of the talks between Tshombe and Adoula. He said they would shoot back if fired on.

Find Doctor Guilty In 12 Deaths

Serum Hepatitis Manslaughter Is Jury's Verdict

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP) — Dr. Albert L. Weiner, an osteopathic physician specializing in psychiatry, was found guilty Tuesday night of manslaughter for the deaths of 12 patients. He was acquitted of criminal responsibility in the deaths of three others.

A jury returned its verdict shortly before midnight, after 12 hours of deliberation.

It ended a trial that began 58 days ago in Camden County Court and included the testimony of nearly 200 witnesses.

Many were former patients who testified they saw dried blood on infusion tubing in Weiner's office. Nearly a score of the witnesses were medical experts. Records of the case filled 6,500 pages.

The state went beyond the language of the 15-count indictment which spoke only of hepatitis, a liver disease, to prove that the deaths were caused by serum hepatitis.

Prosecutor Norman Heine said he did this to show the deaths were attributable to Weiner's use of unsterile and contaminated equipment and drugs, said to be the cause of serum hepatitis.

The jury foreman, Miss Clara Szombat, 51, a secretary, responded "not guilty" to the court clerk's queries on the first two counts of the indictment. On counts three through 11 she responded firmly "guilty." Then came an acquittal and three more convictions.

Weiner showed little reaction until near the end of the polling of the jury. When he left the courtroom, walking behind a wedge of friends and relatives, his head bowed, he appeared deeply upset. His wife fought back tears and dabbed at her eyes with a handkerchief.

Mrs. Weiner was a central figure in the case. A registered nurse, she testified she had instructed other nurses employed in Weiner's Erlton office on procedures he used.

Jury Named. Trial Opens In Cramer Case

A jury trial for Morley Cramer, 34, 707 North New York, charged with molesting a nine-year-old girl, began with the selection of a Pettis County Circuit Court jury Wednesday morning.

William F. Brown is the attorney for the defendant, and Prosecuting Attorney J. R. Fritz is presenting the state's case. Circuit Judge Frank Hayes is presiding. The jurors are:

Ike Warren, Harry Schroeder, Dick Keenan, Clay Runge, Vernon Annett, Virgil Ellis, Frank Norfleet, Rufus Moriarity, Thomas Harvey, R. R. Richardson, Lynn Wagenknecht and John Harvey.

The jurors were selected from a panel of 30 Pettis Countians procured by Sheriff Emmett Fairfax.

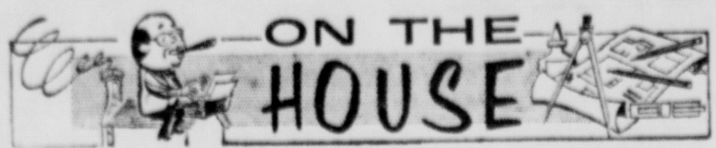

Cramer was originally arrested by Sedalia police June 26 of this year, on a city warrant signed by Mrs. Norma Davis. This warrant charged immoral conduct and behavior.

The trial was set for June 28, in Judge Leonard Ditzfeld's Municipal Court. After hearing some of the testimony in the city court, Fritz, who was present at the trial, asked the City to withdraw its charge of immoral conduct and behavior. The City withdrew this charge and Fritz filed the state charge of molesting a minor.

Fiber glass roofs for patios, carports and breezeways have attained considerable popularity because they allow the passage of a large amount of light yet block the transmission of much of the sun's heat.

Since the fiber glass is light in weight and can be worked with ordinary tools, this material has gained wide acceptance among do-it-yourselfers. The panels can be bought with regular flat surfaces or in a number of flat surface variations, but it is the corrugated panels which are the biggest sellers. The corrugations not only have a certain attractiveness, but help to shed rainwater. They come in various colors, with green the most popular.

If you are planning on putting up a fiber glass roof, it is well to know what size panels will use before the framework is installed. That's because the size of the panels will influence the spacing of the rafters. If the joints fall on the rafters, they will be stronger and will not require as much mastic to be sure they are leakproof. The joints are made by overlapping the panels at least one corrugation.

The panels are nailed to the wooden framing with special aluminum nails with washers that insure watertight seals. Although it is possible to hammer the nails through the paneling without marring the fiber glass, this must be done so carefully that it is better to drill holes through the roofing material to receive the nails. These holes should be slightly smaller than the size of the nails.

For proper drainage, the framework should have a pitch of at least one inch to every foot. Special metal flashings are available to be used at the point where the roof meets the house. These flashings have corrugations in the panels, insuring tight fits and preventing the passage of water under the seams.

The 4 by 4 posts used for the uprights can be set into dirt at least two feet—or set in concrete—or attached with steel dowels or headless bolts if the patio floor already is stone or concrete. The dealer from whom you purchase the posts can give you more detailed advice on that subject to fit your particular need.

One more important point. Before you begin work, find out what building code requirements are in your neighborhood.

There's more to buying a house than being satisfied with the house you are buying.

You make like the looks of the house, you may approve its construction features, you may be pleased with the amount of storage space, you may feel that it has many expansion advantages. But you won't get long-lasting satisfaction from your new home unless you first have taken into account other factors that constitute a good purchase.

Will you, for instance, be satisfied with the type of community you'll be in? This is easy to determine when you are buying into an old, established neighborhood. It's not difficult to determine whether a neighborhood will suit you. Asking questions and looking around will provide you with the answers.

Return to the area several times, during the day, at night, on weekends, in fair weather and foul. If you have children, be sure there are other children nearby. Are the schools and the shopping areas? Are community features, such as recreational facilities, important to you?

Ease of commuting is vital to some persons. Many men have commuted long distances for years with no regrets. They're willing to spend extra time traveling in order to live in a neighborhood which is good for their family. But some men—and women—regard commuting as a major nuisance. If they buy a house in an out-of-the-way place against their better judgment or because someone has talked them into it, they soon regret it.

Then there's another factor that is a bit difficult to define. It has something to do with emotional appeal. It's what you feel about a house the first time you look at it. It's what makes you say almost instantly, "That's for me."

Above all, there's the matter of cost. A recent survey of home buyers in a metropolitan area showed that 73 per cent of them listed cost as their most important consideration. And rightly so. That emotional appeal we mentioned comes into the act at this point. Sometimes you fall in love with a particular house, but can't really afford it or think you can't.

That's the time to sit down with a pencil and paper and figure out what's what. If it's a new house, you may have certain landscaping expenses or you may not, depending on what is included in the sale. If you buy an older house, you have to consider the cost of maintenance, not only that which you may decide to do on your own.

One last point. Somewhere along the line you're going to have to compromise. Rarely does anybody ever get everything in a house, neighborhood and price that he wants. You'll have to give a little here and there. Make up your mind to that, being certain you get most of the things you want, and you'll be a lot happier with your choice.

Boy Drinks Enough Liquor To Cause Death

KANSAS CITY — Mrs. Samuel Hollins said today she hoped her 2½-year-old son has "had enough of that stuff to last him all his life."

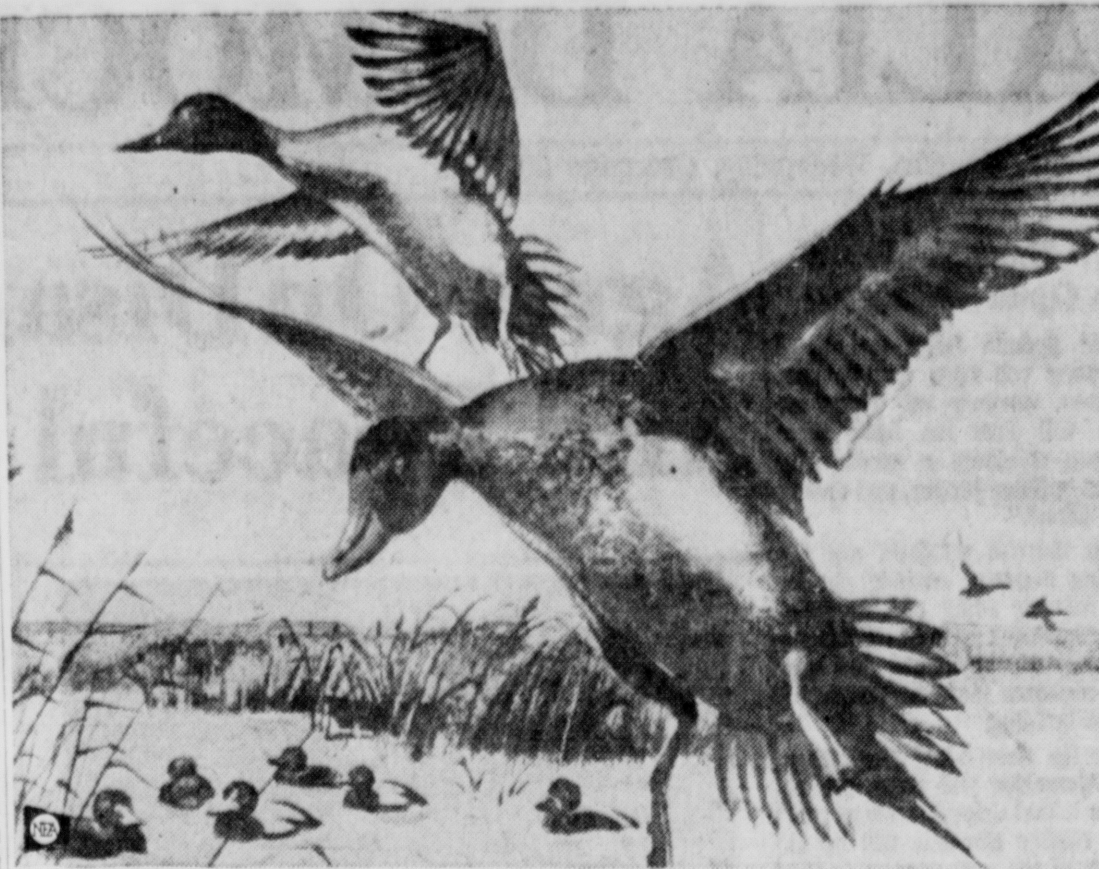

The "stuff" was whiskey. Her son, Michael, was taken to the University of Kansas Medical Center Thanksgiving Day dead drunk. He remained in a coma for 14 hours, his lips and finger tips were blue and his blood pressure dangerously low.

A check at home showed he had gotten into a bottle of bourbon left in a closet by his grandfather. The bottle was three-fourths full and it is believed the lad had taken it down in swift gulps.

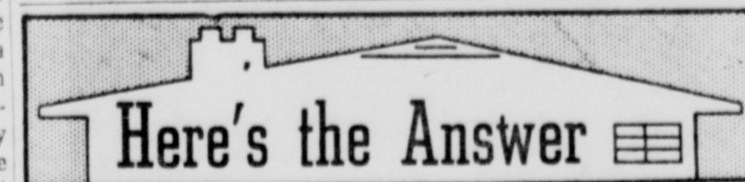

A hospital check showed that 677 per cent of his circulating blood was alcohol. The fatal alcohol level is estimated at .55 per cent. Yet Michael's blood was .17 per cent above the usual death limit.

His poisoned blood was replaced through transfusion during a period a physician said the boy was "knocking at death's door." He was released three days later.

His mother said today Michael is his normal bouncy self again. And there is no more liquid temptation around the house. His mother said bottles of whiskey and drugs are being kept far out of his way.

Question: I intend to put up wood paneling over furring strips attached to a plaster wall. I understand there are several ways the panels can be attached to the furring strips. Can you tell me something about this?

Answer: Yes, there are a number of ways to attach the wood panels to the furring strips. The simplest is merely to nail up the wood panels with finishing nails along the edges of the panels. The disadvantage of this method is that the heads of the nails are visible. But this can be overcome by punching the nail heads slightly below the surface of the wood and filling the tiny holes with wood filler. Another method is to combine wood glue with nails; that is, apply glue to the furring strips and to the part of the panels that will touch the furring strips, and then nail the panels in place. This makes a stronger installation than with nails alone, but creates the same problem of the nail heads. There are two ways to eliminate this problem. One is to attach the wood panels with special metal clips, the other is to attach them with contact cement. The metal-clip system works only with special, pre-finished panels. With contact cement, you apply the adhesive to the furring strips and the backs of the panels and press them together. The bond is instantaneous, with no pressure needed. But extreme care is necessary in positioning the panels, since the contact cement allows no leeway for re-jiggering.

Question: We are planning to add a room to our house. My husband is very handy, but is not an expert on such things and we have hired a man to help him, especially with the planning. This man says he will work out the construction on a program which he calls Modular Coordination. He seems to know what he is talking about, but we want to be sure. Can you advise us?

Answer: We can't give you any advice about whether or not to hire this man, because we haven't any idea as to his competence. This is something you certainly should have checked before making any arrangement with him. However, we can tell you this. There is such a thing as Modular Coordination and, if used properly, it will save you time and money. It's merely a fancy name for a system of construction which calls for the use of standard-sized materials, thus saving on cutting and fitting.

The standard measurement for Modular Construction usually is 4 inches. All materials are bought and used in multiples of 4 inches. Manufacturers make many of their products in these dimensions and there is a great saving in the cutting of wood, brick, cinder block, etc. Room heights and widths are planned to take advantage of these standard-sized materials.

Before any work is done, be sure to check local regulations to determine whether a permit or other certificate is needed to make an addition to your house.

Tree Tricks Are Pulled By Canadians

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Canadian kids are up to their Christmas tree tricks again.

As they have often done in the past—because they found Uncle Sam to be Uncle Santa—they're flooding the United States once more with pitiful pleas tagged to exported Christmas trees.

But the bells soon may not be tinkling so merrily on sleighfuls of goodies going northward. In fact, the tear-jerking tots may have pulled Santa's whiskers once too often.

A tree from the little town of Tracadie, New Brunswick, touched the hearts of men at MacDill Air Force Base in Florida—and then touched off the ire of the Tracadie parish priest.

On the tree was a note from a boy saying: "Will you have the kindness to help a poor boy?" It asked for a box of candy to be shared with seven brothers and sisters.

The MacDill men hastily assembled a plenitude of food, toys and clothing, and sent it winging to Tracadie. Back from Tracadie today came winging some stiff words uttered by the parish priest, the Rev. A. Trudel, about the tactics of the local kids.

He denied that residents of the New Brunswick village are in dire straits, as the Air Force men were led to believe. He said only two families in the population of more than 4,000 were in need, but that they were being well looked after.

"Children these days want everything," snapped Father Trudel.

"Children in one large family I know sent about 300 letters with trees this year," he said.

"The parish has a population of more than 4,000 and their savings accounts amount to about $2.5 million.

Film Makers Produce Some Happy Movies

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — There is joy on the movie screens this Christmas season, proving that film makers have not lost their touch in making entertainment. Sometimes you wonder. Producers have been so enamored with the downbeat and the depraved this year that you fear they have forgotten their ability to entertain.

But at the close of the year, the film companies managed to bring out some films that prove happiness hasn't gone out of style. Five of the new offerings—two musicals, two comedies and an adventure drama—seem to have those showmanly qualities to make the box office cash registers play "Jingle Bells."

1. "El Cid" is much better than a reviewer has a right to expect. It is a romantic adventure in the best sense of the term. The characters, especially Charlton Heston's Cid, are truly heroic, and that's not easy to pull off nowadays.

"El Cid" is the most beautifully photographed movie in years—perhaps of all time. Almost every scene is stunning.

2. "A Majority of One" is a modern fable about the romance of a Jewish widow and a Japanese tycoon. It never quite rises above the level of a fable, but it is played with such warm heartedness that you want to believe it.

The casting of Rosalind Russell in the role originated by Gertrude Berg was roundly criticized, but by gum, if she doesn't pull it off! Alec Guinness is effective though not as convincing in his impersonation.

The nice thing about "A Majority of One" is the pleasant glow it leaves you with afterward. That feeling is hard to find in films nowadays.

3. "Babes in Toyland" is something for the kiddies. Old master Walt Disney has a sure touch for entertaining the small fry while not antagonizing the parents.

Scenically, the film is rich in imagination. A grown-up might wish that the comedy would be on less primary level and music less dated. Best of the performers is Ray Bolger as a sneaky, sniveling, deep-dyed villain.

4. "Flower Drum Song" is a gay, glib, garish musical about life in San Francisco's Chinatown. It is a happy musical, not to be taken seriously, just enjoyed. The music is not first-rate Rodgers and Hammerstein, but even a secondary R&H score is better than most. The players are a pleasure to watch, especially the well-formed Nancy Kwan.

5. "Lover Come Back" reunites two of the most attractive people in the world, Doris Day and Rock Hudson. As in "Pillow Talk," the comedy revolves around sex, and it (the comedy) is greatly aided by the presence of Tony Randall.

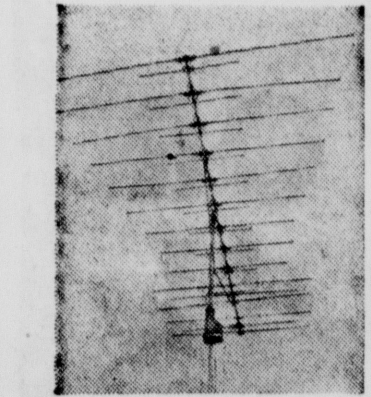

On Honor List

John R. Middleton, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Middleton, 713 West Second, has been named to the superintendent's honor list for the second half of the first term at the United States Naval Academy, Annapolis, Md., where he is a member of the graduating class of 1963.

Only 165 or 17.7 per cent of Middleton's class made the honor list, according to academy officers.

To earn this honor midshipmen must establish a 3.3 grade average or better in academic subjects, hold an aptitude mark of 2.95 for the first half of the first term, have a satisfactory status in physical education, meet specified standards of conduct and receive the recommendation of the commandant of midshipmen.

First Christian CWF Has Christmas Meet

The Christian Women's Fellowship of the First Christian Church met Thursday at the church with 46 members present.

Mrs. F. D. Allee, CWF president, opened with the CWF prayer. The meeting was then turned over to Mrs. Milton Dale, program chairman, who introduced the Christmas pageant, "Accept Him, Serve Him." The setting was the manger scene, with Mary being portrayed by Mrs. Frances Purviance, and depicts, God's Great Gift to Man. The following scenes showed how men bring their gifts back—first to God then to their fellow men. The many ways in which women serve in the church were mentioned, as well as mission offerings and service projects. Gift bearers, who presented the symbols of women's gifts were, Mrs. O. J. Durnell, Mrs. Virgil Herrick and Mrs. W. J. Foote. Readers for the pageant were, Mrs. W. C. Cain, Mrs. James Penn and Mrs. Richard Witig. A quartet composed of Mrs. M. O. Stevens, Mrs. J. W. Watts, Mrs. Maree Lewis and Mrs. Keith Zahringer sang several Christmas carols and Mrs. Frank Armstrong read the scripture.

Growing Labor-Manager Split Could Stir Big Fuss

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP)—Among the issues that are likely to stir up a big fuss in the next few weeks and months is a growing split in thinking between labor and management. It's complicated by a decided administration interest in the outcome.

You can see the issue building up in such actions as rising orders for steel as a hedge against a strike next summer.

And you can hear the issue in a flow of pronouncements by management spokesmen, labor leaders, administration officials.

Some of the words are along the old lines—wages, costs, prices.

But some of the terms they are using are more complex—productivity, automation, hard core of unemployment, inflation and the cost of living, profits and the rate of economic growth, competition with the European Common Market and Japan in world and domestic markets.

That is, some of the battle between labor and management will be along traditional lines: How much pay can we get? How can we hold down costs and maintain or boost profits? How high will prices go?

While deep down, and growing, is a split over more fundamental issues. This is a real difference of opinion as to what is best for the country—or, as Washington would put it, just how much of labor's objectives and management's goals will work to the maximum good of the country.

The turmoil is likely to get pretty loud shortly. Let's try to see what some of the high-sounding issues mean, without attempting to decide which side will win, or should win.

The productivity situation is this: A gain in productivity usually means that new machines or methods permit more goods to be produced with the same amount of man hours. The issue: How much of this gain should go into higher wages, how much into profits, how much into holding down or cutting prices?

Automation involves productivity. It also means sometimes that some workers are no longer needed, that some haven't the skills to handle the new machines. The issue: Should this be corrected by shorter work weeks to spread the remaining work, by retraining laid-off workers, by waiting for general prosperity to provide more jobs elsewhere, as it often has in the past?

The hard core of unemployment is defined as the unskilled worker for whom demand is dwindling. To the ranks are being added younger workers just entering the labor force and older workers whose skills are outdated.

The inflation issue finds labor and management split as to what causes the rising cost of living—steadily rising wage scales, or prices rising enough to keep profits rising, too.

Labor charges that boosting prices unnecessarily to get more profits has caused the demand for higher wages. Management contends that profits aren't rising as fast as they should if industry is to get the funds it needs to expand at anything near the rate of economic growth which the Kennedy administration has set as a goal. The administration says the growth rate must be greater if the economy is to provide, among other things, more jobs needed for a growing labor force.

And even the foreigners are getting into the debate—if only as a warning of what the United States is up against.

The prospering Western European nations and Japan are giving many U.S. companies a hard time selling abroad, or competing here at home with foreign goods.

Management says this is because wage costs here are so high that our prices aren't competitive. Labor says it is management's yen for profits—and high executive salaries—that helps keeps prices high.

The administration hopes it can keep the dispute in bounds—stave off more inflation, keep our goods competitive abroad, make the economy grow faster.

The consumer? He just hopes prices don't go much higher.

Smelser Extension Meets in Hughesville

There were five members present Tuesday for the meeting of the Smelser Extension Club at the home of Mrs. Charles Brandhorst, Hughesville.

An interesting program was given in which customs of Christmas in other lands were told. Carols were sung along in the program.

Games were also played and those winning prizes were, Mrs. Leslie Powell, Mrs. Ella K. Brandhorst, Mrs. Louisa Thomason and Mrs. Everett Vannoy.

Instead of the usual gift exchange, members gave the amount they would usually spend for a gift and the total was used to buy a bond for the Crippled Children's Center.

The next meeting will be announced later.

First Methodist Circle 4 Has Meet

Circle 4, First Methodist Church met at the home of Mrs. Will Messen, Southern Hills, Thursday at 12 noon for a turkey dinner. Mrs. Leo Dawkins was assistant hostess.

There were 13 members and two guests, Mrs. Roy Stribling and Mrs. Marvin Blaine, present. Mrs. Blaine was welcomed as a new member.

Mrs. John Gross gave the devotional and Mrs. Lester Mankins gave a report on the shut-ins that she and Mrs. Ira Barnes had delivered the fruit plates to at Thanksgiving.

Mrs. Cammie Gault had charge of the program. Gifts were exchanged following the program.

Hard Choice for JFK

Demo Senators Blast Nixon For Criticism On Katanga

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two Democratic senators challenged Richard M. Nixon today to offer an alternative to President Kennedy's "hard choice" of backing U.N. action in Katanga.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, the assistant Senate Democratic leader, said he accepts as "responsible opposition" the criticisms made by Nixon, the 1960 GOP presidential nominee, of administration policies in the Congo.

"But what does Mr. Nixon offer as an alternative?" Humphrey asked. "If Katanga secedes from the Congo, it is the beginning of the end. The rest of that unhappy country will become then a beachhead for communism. President Kennedy has made the hard choice—either the U.N. or the communists will prevail in the Congo."

Sen. John Sparkman of Alabama used similar words in a separate interview to describe the President's policies. He said it was all very well for Nixon to characterize as "an incredible mess" the administration's decision to back U.N. efforts to force unification of the Congo.

"But what would Mr. Nixon have done?" Sparkman asked. "Without Katanga the Congo cannot be made a viable country. Without Katanga it would offer an invitation for the communists to come in."

Nixon said in a copyright article in the Los Angeles Times-Mirror that the United States had been put in the position of allying itself with the Soviet Union and against most of its North Atlantic Organization allies in the Congo. He said the central Congo government was "infiltrated by Communists and Communist sympathizers."

Replying to this, Humphrey said that Congo Premier Cyrille Adoula can be regarded as just as anti-Communist as Katangan President Moise Tshombe. He said if Tshombe and Adoula can reach an agreement he is confident they can repress Communist influence in any resulting government.

Noting that some Democrats and Republicans have been demanding an investigation into the United Nations course in the Congo, Humphrey said he thinks it would be worthwhile to look into the efforts of Belgian, French and British financial interests to promote independence for Katanga.

"The Belgians, French and the British have got to learn that they are going to have to give up economic, as well as political colonialism," he said.

Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., one of those who have been plugging for a Senate investigation of Congo policies, denounced at a news conference Tuesday what he called "the myth that the nationalist government in Katanga results from the influence of foreign mercenaries."

Dodd labeled as tragic what he said was the United Nations' arbitrary policy that the Congo

PENCILS FOR PANAMA—This necklace of pencils worn by Ann Ruffing is symbolic of people-to-people aid extended to Latin Americans by U.S. citizens. Specifically, these pencils and thousands more are being sent to Panama by employees of the Nationwide Insurance Co. office at Columbus, Ohio, as a private project. This aid is in addition to the $165,000 the firm's workers have contributed for self-help projects (kerosene lamps, tools, etc.) in Honduras, Costa Rica, Guatemala and Panama. Will Hellerman, left, relayed message after visiting Panama: "Send pencils for the kids."

Gifford, 75, was a former president of the Kansas City Real Estate Board and the Chamber of Commerce. Before the construction of the Lake of the Ozarks he inspected and appraised about 26,000 acres of land for the site. He was the first president of the Lake of the Ozarks Association.

State to Enjoy Slight Warming Trend Thursday

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Missouri will have a little warmup by Thursday, with high readings generally in the 30s.

Skies will be partly cloudy with a chance for some snow late Thursday or Thursday night in the east and south. Lows tonight will be near 15 in the northwest, the upper teens in the northeast and the mid 20s in the extreme southeast.

The state's lowest this morning was 14 below at Maryville, a reading that tied the previous low mark for the date in 1945. St. Joseph had one below while Cape Girardeau was relatively warm with a low of 30.

Some snow or rain is expected by the weekend. Through Monday temperatures are forecast to average 2 to 5 degrees below normal in the northwest and 5 to 10 below elsewhere.

Hearing Slated In Distribution Of Huge Estate

TULSA, Okla. — A hearing is scheduled Jan. 22 on a petition by one of two daughters of the late Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Skelly for distribution of Mrs. Skelly's $11 million estate.

Heirs of the widow of the millionaire oilman and philanthropist are Mrs. Caroline Skelly Burford of St. Louis and Mrs. Joan Skelly Stuart of Tulsa. Each received half of the estate under Mrs. Skelly's will.

Mrs. Burford petitioned county court for the distribution. Skelly's $10 million estate was distributed recently. He left half his fortune to his wife and one-fourth to each daughter.

Skelly died April 11, 1957. His widow died Oct. 7, 1959. Most of Mrs. Skelly's estate, about $7.5 million, is in stocks and bonds.

90 Calves Killed As Truck Flips; Bridge Blocked

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The Jefferson Barracks Bridge over the Mississippi River was closed for 7½ hours Tuesday night and early today by an overturned cattle truck on U. S. 50 just west of the bridge.

St. Louis County police said 90 of the 132 calves were either killed or had to be destroyed.

County police said the driver of the truck, en route from Springfield, Mo., to Lansing, Mich., told them he swerved in an effort to avoid a car which made a sharp left turn in front of him and overturned. He collided with the car. No one was hurt.

The truck driver was Jimmy Day, 30, of Springfield, Mo. The calves are owned by the Gammon and Gammon Cattle Co., Springfield. The driver of the car, Wayman Swift, 31, St. Louis, was charged with making an improper left turn and with failing to give a signal.

Highway Maintenance Budget $33.5 Million

JEFFERSON CITY — A $33.5 million maintenance budget for 32,039 miles of state highways was announced today by the Highway Commission for 1962.

It is $3,400,000 more than the budget for the current year, primarily because 213 miles have been added to the system, costs of labor, materials and equipment have gone up and some surfaces have been upgraded from gravel to oil.

It also includes the cost of maintaining the growing Interstate System mileage.

ST. LOUIS — The suburban Hazelwood public schools, with an enrollment of 8,200, decided to close at the end of today's classes for the holiday period—two days early—because of a fast-spreading siege of respiratory illnesses.

God Chooses Life On Earth

EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the second of four articles on the Christmas story in its heavenly setting, based on Biblical representations of the World on High. Utterances of the Divinity are attributed to Him by Gospel writers and prophets; the words of heavenly beings are from the prophets who in human terms, strive to mirror the views of the divine world.

By GEORGE CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

A SENSE OF quickening rapture swept the supersensible regions.

New prospects were abroad.
New tidings flew.

Among the sanctified denizens of that immeasurable everywhere, there was a lively, warm and mounting awareness that the curtain was rising on a momentous and sublime drama.

"Hark, a rumor, behold it comes, a great commotion out of the North Country."

A winged herald carried the news, and it struck jubilation throughout the rainbow tiers of the heavens, for "North Country" was the figurative term denoting the throne of the Ancient of Days.

"God has taken His place in the divine council. In the assembly of the holy ones. . . He holds judgment."

It was a stirring and glad affair in the doings of the Lord, who works hitherto and forevermore, to bring endless gradations of refreshment and delight to those agreeable climes.

Wonder and Acclaim
From the first to the seventh heaven, there was wonder and acclaim. "How great are thy works, O Lord. Thy thoughts are very deep." He who had conceived all for all never ceased to offer ever greater possibilities.

Trumpets sounded, and mellifluous chimes, so fine they reached only the noblest comprehension, waited through the mansions of the true. Sceptered angels, in festal array, stood before the Very Sanctuary.

It was, and ever is, the wellspring, the essence of the universe, the innermost totality of determining knowledge, power and design that stretches from the highest intangible to the lowest form of matter.

It is the creative fundamental, the height and the depth, the consummate sum of everything attained or attainable, the mountain of the living Godhead to whom the earth is attached like "a foot-stool."

"Sing praises to God, sing praises."
Hymns filled those matchless chambers.

He "who sits above the circle of the earth" not only reigned in that prepotent inner circle, but to the outermost reaches of innumerable concentric circles down to the basest perishing clay.

Between the limited and the unlimited, life moved, all part of the whole — with varying degrees of vision and potentialities for ascent — or descent. Life was movement, the antithesis of inertia, and new currents rustled
the supernal banners.

God Speaks
"God has spoken in His Sanctuary," the information came.

Around the tabernacle, the heavenly entities awaited the illuminating Word, with sure and grateful anticipation. From the illustrious parapets, the call went forth:

"The Lord is coming out of His Place."

A deep hush fell among the holy ones. He was "clothed with honor and majesty." Immutably righteousness and justice were
His bearing, and steadfast love
His way. His train filled the temple.

The books of life were opened.
His devotees listened.

"Behold, the former things have come to pass, and new things I now declare; before they spring forth, I shall tell you of them."

Every circumstance, each interwoven with the now and the ever after, brought further unfolding of changeless truth, recognizable according to the perceptivity of different beings.

From the august council of the cherubim who dwell next to God, to the simplest planetary child, all received glimmerings from the "Father of Lights." But the more elevated received most.

"Hear, O heavens, and give ear,
O earth. . . Sons have I reared and brought up, but they rebelled against me. . .

Behold, I will do a new thing
. . . I will lift up My hand to the nations, and raise My signal to the peoples. . . I will make a way in the wilderness, and rivers in the desert."

to Me empty, but it shall accomplish that which I purposed. Soon
My salvation will come, and My deliverance be revealed."

Joy for the Repentant
Indeed, the need was extreme.
Innocent worlds had looked with compassion on earthly darkness.
Even when a single sinner repented, there was joy among the angels. But all humans fell abysmally short of Godly health.

They had rejected it and were sick for want of it. In their insensitive state, immersed as they were in transient material objectives, it seemed impossible that they could ever reassume permanent lines of being.

Poor bedeviled creatures, taken in by that seducer, Satan, and his cunning shades. Man could see little more than the accoutrements of fast-withering flesh, financial holdings, titles, adornments, buildings, vehicles, high position.

And all this was certain for disintegration. How man, his inherent spirit nature paralyzed and trodden underfoot, could ever be reconstituted, God only knew.

But what a triumph it would be.
"I have seen his ways, but I will heal him. I will lead him and requite him with comfort. Peace, peace to the far and to the near,
and I will heal him."

"Bring My sons from afar and My daughters from the ends of the earth, every one that is called by My Name. . . I will lead the blind in a way that they know not.
In paths that they have not known,
I will guide them. . .

"I will not forsake them."
So proclaimed the Lord, the
"I am who I am."

The news set off a celebration in the spirit worlds, for all creation was bound together by the law of love, the highest of all laws. So the promise of closer unity with earth warmed the heart of heaven.

Yet the means for accomplishing the project remained for many of various levels, a mystery. And it was a subject of much pondering.

"When men fall, do they. . .
rise again?"

"Who can bring a clean thing of an unclean?"

Mans Bad Choices
Man, given a free rein, had made so many bad choices that the way back was overgrown with cross-purposes, compromises and conflicts. He stumbled on in sense-ridden desperation with a haunted conscience. He was lost.

From the beginning, God had sought to realign him to his inward stature, rescuing him from bondage, leading him across seas, guiding him through deserts, showing him with manna, blazing his covenant on Sinai, counseling him through prophets and patriarchs, offering signs and symbols to awaken man's spiritual awareness.

"With an everlasting kindness
he has drawn them. . . .
"He has fed them with the bread of tears."

"How often they rebelled" . . .
"They walk in their own inventions."

Hemmed in by the illusion of their own mastery, estranged from their origins, men had made themselves and their earth the center of their lives, the end-all.

The call went forth: "The Lord is coming out of His Place."

instead of recognizing that it was the mere foot of a ladder reaching upward.

An angel had conveyed the fact to Jacob in a dream. But the dream had faded, and man could not see the ladder. His proud eyes were full of stairways made of steel and wood, of authority and clinking silver.

The Almighty intended to open them, in a new, more vivid way. "I will show the salvation of God." The forces assigned to take part in the plan were astonished at its daring.

"But will God indeed dwell on earth?"

So He ordained.

Moss Hart Dies At Winter Home In Palm Springs

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—Playwright Moss Hart died early today at his winter home here. He was 57.

First reports did not indicate the cause of death.

The famed theatrical writer and his wife have had a home in this desert resort area for some time.

Hart had suffered a heart attack last year while directing the break-in of "Camelot" in Toronto. The show was a reunion of the creators of "My Fair Lady"—Hart as director and Alan Jay Lerner and Frederick Loewe as author and composer.

Hart's wife, actress-singer Kitty Carlisle, recently left a television panel show in New York to join her husband here.

Hart's plays included "The Great Waltz," "Merrily We Roll Along," "As Thousands Cheer," "Jubilee," "Once in a Lifetime" and "Face the Music."

Policy Check Welcomed By the US

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk said today the Kennedy administration would welcome a congressional investigation of its policies in the Congo and elsewhere in the world.

"We would have no objection" to a full examination of the Congo story or to a full examination of the full foreign policy story, he said.

Speaking to reporters after a session called meeting with members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, Rusk expressed hope that a conference between Katanga President Moise Tshombe and Congo Premier Cyrille Adoula can bring stability and peace to the troubled African area.

The meeting was arranged after criticism came from some public figures of the U.N. military action in the Congo and the U.S. administration's support of it.

Rusk denied that this country or the United Nations are trying to impose a political or economic system on the Congo.

Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., a committee member who was absent at today's closed briefing, said that the U.N. attack against Katanga troops may open the way for a Communist-dominated Congo.

Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., a spokesman for conservatives, have voiced similar charges.

Rusk said he does not care whether the administration's Congo policy is investigated by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee or by a special committee such as Dodd proposed.

However, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., said he thinks the foreign relations group is perfectly capable of conducting any inquiry that is necessary. He added that he does not believe any investigation is needed.

On the other hand, Humphrey said he had urged Rusk to order preparation of a White Paper which would explain in detail the administration's policies in the Congo.

Couple's Skiing Trip Ends With Hospital Visits

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Tripp III won't be planning any more skiing trips for a while.

The couple had not done any skiing since they were youngsters, but last week they got a friend to stay with their three children and took off for several days of the sport in Canada.

All was fine until Friday, when Mrs. Tripp, 32, suffered a broken right leg in a spill on a slope at St. Jovite, 80 miles north of Montreal, when the safety release on one of her skis failed to work.

Tripp, 35, took her to the St. Paul hospital in St. Jovite and returned to the slope, but a few hours later he was a patient in the same hospital. The safety release on one of his skis also failed during a spill and he, too, suffered a broken right leg.

The couple returned here by plane Tuesday night.

"Isn't this ridiculous!" said Mrs. Tripp when she was being carried off the plane as her husband hobbled along behind her on crutches.

Slick pavement was listed as a factor in a three-vehicle accident in which John Washington, 42, 301 West Morgan, was slightly injured.

Washington was taken to Bothwell Hospital by police and treated for an abrasion on the knee. He was later released.

The accident occurred at 239 South Quincy, at 9:08 a.m. Tuesday as a 1956 Mercury, driven north on Quincy by Robert Cummings, 39, 2505 Highland, skidded on slick pavement, causing it to collide with a 1951 Chevrolet pickup truck, parked on Quincy by Melvin Lang, 39, 2120 South Missouri, according to police reports.

The report stated that the truck was attempting to start a 1957 Plymouth parked at 239 South Quincy and was partially out in the street, but not enough so as to block passage. The report further said that Washington was assisting Lange with the operation when the Mercury skidded into the truck, knocking it against the Plymouth and pinning Washington between the car and truck.

The left fender of the Mercury was damaged. The other two vehicles were reportedly not damaged.

Eight Merchants Plead Innocent At Arraignment

JOPLIN, Mo. (AP)—Eight Joplin merchants pleaded innocent today when arraigned on charges of selling non-essential goods on Sunday.

Magistrate Enos C. Currey set Jan. 5 as the trial date and released them on bonds of $100 each.

They are accused of selling toys, women's apparel, playing cards and other non-essential items. The charges stemmed from sales allegedly made on the first Sunday after Atty. Gen. Tom Eagleton announced a crack-down on such sales.

Dismiss Charges In Magistrate Court Action

Larry Austin of Knob Noster and Robert Tippo of Whiteman Air Force Base were charged with the illegal purchase of beer in the raid on the Top Hat tavern at Warrensburg several weeks ago. When their cases came up in magistrate court Friday, the charges were dismissed by Prosecuting Attorney David Dixon.

Dixon said the two cases were dismissed at his request because of lack of evidence. In other court action Friday, two charges against Ernest Denning in connection with the two offenses above were dismissed. Denning was charged with felony charge of permitting whiskey to be served on premises licensed for 3.2 beer only and this charge was dismissed and refilled as a misdemeanor.

year because the speed and skill of the "regulars" in handling the mails more than offsets the additional costs.

The once-a-day delivery of Christmas cards and letter mail in most areas is achieved by a "fusing" process. Simply stated, this means that a regular employee begins work in the early morning hours to infuse all of the mail for each route into batches that can be handled in a single delivery by the carriers on the route, including any necessary temporary assistance. The huge load of Christmas cards are transported throughout the city to the familiar green colored "Not For Deposit of Mail" boxes by postal vehicles where each carrier picks up the bundled mail for his route as he walks along.

The Postmaster commented: "Our operation this year, and our experience on the peak days . . . in delivering residential mail in a single delivery will enable our post office employees to contribute their share to the nationwide program of the Postal Service in maintaining the best service with the minimum use of inexperienced manpower. I believe our patrons have experienced faster service with fewer errors."

At the same time the Postmaster thanked local patrons for their cooperation and urged those who have not made their Christmas mailings to do so immediately. "It takes the fullest cooperation from the public to make the best of our programs work to the utmost advantage," Hogan said.

Miss Charlotte Walker Becomes Bride Of Mr. John Walker, Jr.

Mrs. John C. Walker, Jr.

At half past two o'clock Sunday afternoon, Dec. 3, at the First Baptist Church in Marshall, Miss of the bouquet and pearls and Charlotte M. Walker, daughter of rhinestones accented the bouquet Mrs. Charles W. Walker and the late Mr. Walker, Marshall, became the bride of Mr. John C. Walker, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Walker, Sr., Marshall. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Hugh G. Smith.

The church was decorated with white aisle candelabras accented with smilax. Window ledge arrangements were made of holly, smilax, white flocked leaves tied with red satin bows. Two fan baskets of white glads, red carnations, white stock, and greenery tied with red satin bows and two pair of candelabras on either side of the baskets at the altar completed the decorations.

Traditional wedding selections were played by Miss Sandie Vinyard, Marshall, on the organ. She also accompanied Miss Leonda Gann, Marshall, who sang "Whither Thou Goest," "Because," "One Hand, One Heart" and "Wedding Prayer."

Lighting the candles were Miss Jean Ann Mitchell, Marshall, cousin of the groom, and Miss Kay Benedick, Marshall. They wore identical red velvet sheath dresses, red satin slippers, red velvet hats and white gloves. Red satin cummerbunds accented their waists. They carried white twists accented with holly and velvet bows. Each wore a corsage of peppermint carnations accented with red velvet bows and holly.

Escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Frank Walker, the bride wore an enchanting gown of French Chantilly lace and tulle. The lace basque bodice featured long tapered sleeves and a softly scalloped Sabrina neckline trimmed delicately with iridescent sequins. The bouffant skirt featured a front pleatum of lace falling over tiers of tulle edged in lace with the iridescent sequin motif. Side panels of lace caught back tiers of tulle edged in lace which cascaded into a chapel train. Her pure silk illusion veil was caught by a tiny double crown of pearls. She carried a semi-crescent cas-groom, as groomsmen. Ushers were Mr. John Thomas, Marshall, cousin of the groom, Mr. Joe Bob Mitchell, Marshall, cousin of the groom, and Mr. Howard D. Jones Jr., Marshall.

The bride's mother chose a blue and white knit arml dress with blue hat and black accessories. She wore a white rose corsage with white velvet bow.

The mother of the groom wore a dark green wool suit with a fur collar and black accessories. Her corsage was of white roses and white velvet ribbon.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the church with approximately 200 guests attending.

The four tier wedding cake was topped with three sugar bells accented with net and flowers. The wedding cake was lacy and had white icing roses with silver leaves. Smilax was placed around the cake and white roses accented the smilax. Cranberry punch was served from a crystal punch bowl. Red twists in silver holders were placed on either side of the cake. Crystal compotes in silver holders held the red and white mints and the mixed nuts. The bride's bouquet was placed on the reception table. The table was covered with a white linen cloth overlaid by a crocheted cloth. Smilax was draped around the edge of the table.

Servers were Miss Marilyn Marcum, Marshall, Miss Judy Jones, Marshall, Miss Judy Wiley, Marshall, Miss Maureen Thomas, Nelson, and Miss Marvonne Byars, Marshall. In charge of the reception generally was Mrs. Grady Curd, Malta Bend, and Mrs. Velma Cartee, Marshall, assisted by Mrs. S. P. Simmons, Marshall, and Mrs. Fred Boedecker, Marshall.

Mrs. Kenneth R. Brown, Marshall, cousin of the groom, had charge of the guest book. In charge of the gift table was Mrs. Dorsey Stevens, Marshall.

Immediately following the reception, the couple left for a honeymoon to Oklahoma, Texas, Louisiana and Arkansas. For traveling, the bride chose a black wool jersey sheath with lavender accessories and a corsage of white roses with white velvet ribbon.

The couple is making their home in Marshall. The bride graduated from the Marshall High School with the class of 1960. She is presently employed as secretary by Harold B. Swinger, Realtor, Marshall. The groom is a graduate of the Marshall High School with the class of 1955. He is engaged in farming at Marshall Junction.

Take Pilot Grove

Bunceton Sure Of CCAA Title

The Bunceton Dragons, after whipping the Pilot Grove Tigers, 61-33, in a CCAA conference contest Tuesday night, assured themselves of their sixth straight conference crown. They stand 9-2 for the season.

The Dragons, apparently as fierce in conference play as their name implies, romped past the Tigers with ease after taking a three-point lead at the end of the first period of play. After that, it was no contest for the Dragons, who consistently piled up their score while the Tigers dragged along.

Howard Fields, stalwart player for the Dragons all season, dropped in six field goals and one free throw for 13 points to lead his team's attack. Maurice Miles was next with 10. For Pilot Grove, Brownfield was high on five shots from the field and two from the charity toss line for 12 points, followed by Schweitzer with 11.

Bunceton's girls also stayed on top of the conference pile when they trounced Pilot Grove's girls, 36-15, in a conference basketball game. Anna Bryan was high for Bunceton with 17 points, while Rentel was high for Pilot Grove with 10.

The "Lady Dragons" hold a formidable 13-1 season record, and a 6-0 in the conference, matching the boys game for game.

Bunceton has only two games remaining, and wins in both will make the coveted CCAA conference crown theirs. The first of the two games will be played this coming Friday when Bunceton plays St. Joseph Catholic School at Salisbury. It will be a non-conference game.

Score by quarters: Bunceton 13 14 14 20-61; Pilot Grove 10 4 9 10-33. Individual scoring: Bunceton—Maurice Miles 10; Robert Miles 6; Howard Fields 13; Kenny Lenz 2; Bill Harned 2; Larry Meyer 6; Bob Warnbrodt 2; Don Dicus 8; Jack Watring 3; Jan Fancier 5; Steve Gerhardt 4. Pilot Grove—Brownfield 12; Schweitzer 11; Willenbring 2; Higgins 4; Waller 4.

Prairie Home Beats Eagles At Otterville

Prairie Home trounced Otterville's Eagles, 48-38, Tuesday night in a CCAA conference game played at Otterville. The Eagles, weak this season in the conference, have a 2-5 CCAA mark, and stand 5-12 for the season.

After holding a one-point edge over the Eagles at the end of the first quarter, Prairie Home moved out and was never threatened by Otterville for the remainder of the game.

Scoring moved slowly for both teams throughout the game. Players found it difficult to find the range, and many good shot opportunities were lost. At the half, Prairie Home had a five-point lead over Otterville, 25-20, and a big third quarter clinched it.

Of the five Eagle players to score, Kenneth Moon was high with nine points. For Prairie Home, Wilbur Miller dropped in 16 points, good for scoring honors of the evening. He was followed by John Walterscheid, who scored 13.

In a girls' basketball contest, Otterville squeezed by Prairie Home, 26-24, on the 13-point performance of Bobby Holman. For Prairie Home, Mary Moore was high with 10 points.

The Eagles play Bunceton Jan. 9 in another conference game. Score by quarters: Prairie Home 11 14 15 8-48; Otterville 10 10 9 8-38. Individual scoring: Prairie Home—John Walterscheid 13; Wilbur Miller 16; Don Ernst 4; Richard Zey 7; Bill Scheidt 7; Danny Wolfe 1. Otterville—Kenneth Moon 9; Bob Bentzin 6; Cecil Cook 8; Larry Huffman 8; Sonny Watring 7.

What They Say

CHARLES O. FINLEY,

(Chairman, 1961 National Christmas Seal Campaign): I Almost Struck Out on TB—I thought I was going to sell the doctor some insurance on that MOST IMPORTANT DAY OF MY LIFE. But the doctor noticed that I needed insurance more than he did. That was a bad cough I had, he said. He was right.

He checked me and found that I had TB. I had it bad. Pneumonic TB, what they used to call "galloping consumption."

So I went to the TB hospital and stayed two years. Just because I tried to sell the man some insurance. Not a very good joke, I guess, but I told myself a lot of bad jokes while I was lying on that hospital bed. While my wife worked and tried to keep the family together.

Somehow things worked out, and much better than I had any right to expect. That stay in the hospital was really the turning point of my life. During one of those long nights I got the idea of starting the insurance business that I now head, the business that brought me financial success. It also made it possible for me to realize a boyhood ambition by buying a major league baseball club.

I shouldn't neglect to mention that my wife did manage to hold the family together while I got back on my feet. We've been rather successful in this line too—seven children now.

I know what TB means. That's why I have gladly accepted the national chairmanship of the 1961 Christmas Seal Campaign. That's why I ask all Americans to make their Christmas Seal contributions and join my plan of "Christmas Seals for Health Insurance."

Five States Approve New Hiway Plan

M. S. Peek, president of the National Highway 50 Federation announced today that already the new program launched by the organization at its convention in Carson City in September had been endorsed by state highway 50 associations in five of the 12 states through which U.S. Highway 50 passes as it traverses the United States from Ocean City, Md., to San Francisco, Calif.

Endorsements have been received from the states of California, Nevada, Colorado, Kansas, and Missouri. The new five point program calls for increased activity in travel promotion, working for more physical highway improvements on US 50, public relations, assistance to state highway 50 associations, and membership service.

Peek announced that at the convention Doyle L. Davidson, executive vice president of the Federation from La Junta, Colo., was given full backing and authority to launch and supervise this new program of work designed to better advertise US highway 50 and the attractions thereon. One of the first jobs will be to find key leadership in all communities through which US 50 passes. Much of this leadership has already been found in the states mentioned above and meetings are being planned for the states of Illinois, Indiana, and Ohio so that the new program can be expanded east of the Mississippi River.

William Kramer of Chillicothe, Ohio will coordinate these meetings. Jim Bohart of the Hutchisin, Kansas Chamber of Commerce who like Kramer is a vice president of the federation has been active in setting up the meetings already held in Missouri, Kansas and Colorado. President Peek has been active in setting the meetings in the western area and is planning for a Utah meeting shortly after the first of the year. Swift Berry of Placerville, Calif., heads the California Association, Peek is president or the Nevada group, Lawrence Myers of La Junta, Colo., is president of that state, Duke Parrot of Hutchinson, Kan., heads the Kansas association and Floyd Dillion of Sedalia, Mo., is the president of the latter association. Kramer is president of the Ohio group. The national convention adopted a budget in excess of $27,000 as the amount necessary to finance this program for the first year. This money is being raised from business firms along US 50 and from Chambers of Commerce along this same route.

Each state association is also participating in this program. Peek anticipates that this program will be effective in increasing travel on US 50.

Rissler Circle Meets With Mrs. P. Mowry

Wednesday, the Rissler Circle No. 1 of First Methodist Church, met at the home of Mrs. Paul Mowry for its Christmas meeting. Mrs. Mowry, assisted by Mrs. Chester Long and Mrs. Norris Starkey served refreshments to 15 members and four guests.

A short business meeting was held with the chairman, Mrs. Walter Rissler, presiding. Plans were made for the collection of materials to be put in the basket for the needy family adopted by the circle and an offering was taken for money to purchase gifts for each member of the family.

Mrs. Elver Cecil opened the devotion period with a prayer and followed with a meditation on "The Wise and the Un-wise Men." She spoke of our responsibility as Christians, as wise men, to lead those who are un-wise in the Christian faith.

The program was led by Mrs. Norbert Tompkin. Miss Elsie Swan read the Christmas story from the scriptures, using selections from Isaiah, Matthew and Luke. The entire group then joined in the singing of Christmas hymns, accompanied by Mrs. Mowry at the organ. Mrs. Tompkin read a lovely story entitled "Analise's Christmas." After the singing of more Christmas hymns the meeting was closed with a prayer by Mrs. Cecil.

The home was decorated in keeping with the Christmas season and the devotions and program were inspiring and challenging to all present.

The mite box collection was made and the devotional was given by Miss Emma Schnakenberg, after which the meeting adjourned with the Lord's Prayer.

During the social hour Christmas gifts were exchanged and refreshments were served by the hostess.

Yule Party
For Optimist
And Ladies

A program of Christmas music was presented by the Smith-Cotton Music Department under the direction of Mrs. Carl Schrader at the Optimist Club Tuesday noon at Bothwell Hotel.

The large group of young students forming the chorus sang "Little Drummer Boy" which is the story in song of the little boy who had no gift to offer the Christ child so did an extra job at beating his drum for the baby.

The second number, "Glory in Excelsis," was by the chorus with Marilyn Low as the soloist.

Jill Ragland sang "An Angel of the Lord," with the chorus singing "Glory to God."

The chorus also sang "The Spirit of Christmas" with a melody of Christmas carols.

The accompanists were Mildred Reed and Barbara Lanpher.

As the turkey dinner was being served at the decorated tables with red poinsettias and red candles, the double sextet of Smith-Cotton senior girls came into the room singing Christmas carols and gay Christmas songs. The girls composing the double sextette are: Marilyn Lowe, Jill Ragland, Dolly Alexander, Lois Kirby, Sharon Maggard, Mary Donna Moore, Sara Brougher, Sharon Middleton, Linda Hughes, Linda Pasley, Carol Williams and Julie Cannon. Mrs. Schrader has a group of senior girls each year, sometimes a sextette, sometimes a sextette and a trio but this year she has a complete double sextette of very lovely voices.

The Optimist had as their guests their wives for the annual Christmas party.

The meeting was presided over by Joe Forsee, president, with Harold Barrick giving the invocation.

Gerald Cecil led the group singing with Miss Lillian Fox at the piano. John Herbst was program chairman.

Guests introduced were: Dr. and Mrs. Karl Gonsler, Mrs. Ellison, John Boul and Mrs. Tommy Lee of Alexandria, Va.

Midwest Shivers
As Zero Weather
Moves in Again

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Zero weather hit Midwest states again today and it was freezing in a narrow belt southward into the flood-stricken sections of Mississippi and the Texas Gulf Coast. Skies cleared in most sections of the severe cold belt covering the Dakotas, Nebraska, Minnesota and Iowa after Tuesday's snow and freezing rain.

There was wet weather, snow, rain and freezing drizzle in the Northeast and rain and snow in the far Northwest. Fair weather prevailed across the southern tier of states from the Carolinas and Georgia to Southern California and from the northern Plains southward through Texas.

The mercury dropped far below zero again today, the last full day of the autumn season, in the Dakotas, Minnesota and Iowa.

Temperatures also fell sharply through the Missouri River Valley southward to the Texas Gulf Coast and the lower Mississippi Valley, with freezing marks southward to Mississippi and Louisiana. It was 32 in Jackson, Tenn., and Longview and Tyler, Tex.

The freezing weather chilled Jackson, where an estimated 700 persons have been forced from their homes by flood waters from the Pearl River. More than 400 other persons have been evacuated along the Tombigbee and Luxapalila rivers in the Columbus and Aberdeen areas of Mississippi. Floods from rain-swollen rivers continued to menace areas in Alabama and Tennessee.

Dick Powell
Series Rates
Favored Nod

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The Hollywood studios, turning out television series by the yard, have earned—often with justice—the nickname of sausage factories. During the current season, however, Dick Powell has been giving a weekly demonstration that it is not necessary to sacrifice quality in favor of quantity.

His anthology series on NBC has been consistently good and sometimes superb, with absorbing plots, imaginative production and good acting.

Tuesday night's program, while not the best of the series by a long shot, was a workmanlike mystery about the murder of a faith healer. One off-beat touch was Eva Gabor playing the principal suspect—a most un-Gaborish role, for she was shorn of glamor, suffered amnesia and was quite pathetic.

It's a substantial series that deserves more attention.

The new year will bring some confusing changes in the network schedules. The biggest shift will involve CBS' dropping of "The Investigators," leaving an hour on Thursday night to be filled. "The Gertrude Berg Show" will be moved into half of the hour and the new "Tell It to Groucho" program will take the other 30 minutes.

Into Wednesday night's lineup moves "The Dick Van Dyke Show," and a night-time version of "Password" will start Jan. 2 on Tuesday nights. Garry Moore and Carol Burnett will be guest stars on the premiere of the game show.

Big impending change at NBC is the dropping, after all these years, of the afternoon serial, "Young Doctor Malone." Viewer complaints are still piling into the network. Replacement is an audience participation show, "Your First Impression," starting Jan. 2. Host on the show will be Monte Hall, who does the same chore on rival CBS' "Video Village." ABC will replace "The Roaring 20s" on Dec. 27 with "Calvin and the Colonel," a cartoon series, and a new situation comedy, "Room for One More." Repeats of the Winston Churchill series probably will take up half the time left when Steve Allen's show departs after next week, but no show has been found yet for the first half hour.

To Appear On TV

Miss Glenna Stewart of Independence, formerly of Sedalia, will appear with the Kansas City Life choir on WDAF-TV, Channel 4, Sunday, Dec. 24, at 1 p.m.

Glenna is a former voice student of Mrs. C. D. Demand, and has been with the choir for six months. The family moved to Kansas City five months ago.

The choir is composed of employees of the Kansas City Life Insurance Co., and is under the direction of Dr. Everett Hendricks of the Conservatory of Music, Kansas City University. The choir presents several performances during the year as well as the annual Christmas TV presentation.

Assault Charges
Filed Against
Pair of Hunters

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Two St. Louis men were named in warrants charging assault with intent to murder Tuesday in connection with the freakish shooting of an Illinois housewife near Belleville, Monday.

Charged in warrants issued by Justice of the Peace Anton Malacarne were Gerald Moore, 29, and Anthony Del Rio, 30.

Mrs. Melba Raines, 41, the mother of six, was shot in the chest by a stray bullet fired during a rifle duel between her husband and hunters he was trying to chase off his property. The bullet that hit Mrs. Raines passed through a six-inch window sill, a bookcase and three books before lodging in her body. She was reported in serious condition at a Belleville hospital Tuesday.

Edmund Raines, victim's husband, told authorities he shouted several times for the hunters to leave after hearing shots fired in an area where he had livestock. When they ignored his shouts, Raines got his rifle and fired twice over their heads.

One of the men took cover in a weed patch and fired a volley at Raines' house. Seven bullets

Union Will Take Reins of Local
In Kansas City

KANSAS CITY — P — The United Auto Workers international in Detroit said Tuesday that it was taking over control of Kansas City UAW local 93 because of an election dispute.

Seizure of trusteeship follows a challenged election of local officers in June and nearly six months of unrest. The Labor Department, charging irregularities, has ordered another election.

The local represents more than 2,000 UAW members working at the Chevrolet and Fisher Body plants here.

Ted Hawks, UAW regional director at St. Louis, was ordered to take over its temporary administration.

The Central Labor Council of Greater Kansas City has been operating under AFL-CIO trusteeship since last July.

Moore and Del Rio were visiting a neighbor of Raines when the shooting incident occurred and the neighbor informed authorities of their identity. Both were arrested by St. Louis police at their homes Monday night.

Waggoner Boost
To Opponents Of Kennedy's Team

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP)—The election of Joe Waggoner, a staunch segregationist and conservative Democrat, to Congress strengthens congressional opponents of the Kennedy administration.

Waggoner defeated Republican Charlton H. Lyons Sr. in a surprisingly close election in northwestern Louisiana's 4th District Tuesday.

The new congressman made no secret during the hard-fought campaign that he differs widely with most policies of the national party which he bolted in the 1960 presidential election.

Complete returns gave Waggoner 33,846 votes to 28,275 for Lyons in a district that hasn't elected a Republican congressman since Reconstruction days.

Waggoner, of Plain Dealing, is 43 and a member of the State Board of Education. Lyons is 67, a wealthy Shreveport oilman.

Waggoner will serve until January 1963, filling out the term of the late Rep. Overton Brooks, who died Sept. 16.

Most observers were surprised at the large vote for Lyons, whose views closely agreed with Waggoner's. Lyons himself was a Democrat for 45 years until last year.

Diagnosis By Machine

Robot Doctors, Healthier Paint Draw Science Focus

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Visions of using robot computers to help doctors diagnose diseases: a theory that chemicals suspect as cancer-causes may hitchhike rides on viruses; and a new and healthier paint for submarines are among latest examples of science at work.

Robot Medics
New research suggests that eventually electronic computers may help doctors diagnose heart disease and certain other ailments.

The robot medical aides might also be employed in "mass screening" of large population groups to help detect unsuspected ailments.

That's the word from a team of U.S. Public Health Service, Cornell, and industry researchers. They report preliminary but promising results in using a computer to help tell whether a given person has a normal or diseased heart.

It does so, they say, by digesting punched card data corresponding to electrical and other signals given out by the heart—and automatically comparing it with similar data stored in the machine's memory department. The memory stuff is data cleaned from many persons known to have heart disease—or be free of it. The machine quickly issues a terse, typewritten report relating the likelihood of normalcy or disease in a given person. Lots more study is needed, however, before there could be any thought of using the robots clinically.

Hitchhikers
Certain chemicals present in man's environment have long been strongly suspect as among causes of cancer—even though they are present only in trace amounts, says a group of Seton Hall Medical College researchers.

How then, could they possibly cause cancer? It might be, say the scientists, that common viruses—such as those that sometimes cause polio, colds and other ailments—might serve as carriers of such chemicals. They might take them right into susceptible body cells which viruses themselves can invade.

The scientists, who said their theory stemmed from work on mice, granted the concept is open to challenge. But they said that if it proved correct, it might be possible to prevent some kinds of cancer by protecting people against viruses that pick up hitchhiking chemicals.

Submarine Paint
As any sailor can tell you, the Navy is always painting something—to protect ship hulls and machinery from corrosion. In submarines—especially in long submerged nuclear subs—there's another reason for frequent painting and repainting: to prevent sailors from getting psychological problems that might arise from a monotonous environment.

With oil-based paints formerly used, the Navy found that such frequent changes of interior scenery led to a build-up of potentially unhealthy compounds released from the paints long after they had dried.

Now, the Naval Research Laboratory has come up with a new, semi-gloss "acrylic-latex" paint—with a rubbery base—which scientists say solves the problem.

Iron Curtain Around Goa; Ban Newsmen

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Indian forces tidied up their hold on Portuguese Goa today behind an iron curtain. Newsmen were banned from the tiny enclaves seized in a 36-hour blitzkrieg.

The Defense Ministry announced that the remaining points of resistance in Goa had collapsed but kept dozens of reporters and photographers waiting outside of the biggest enclave at the Indian command post town of Belgaum. The smaller enclaves of Damão and Diu, north of Bombay, fell earlier before the lightning attack launched early Sunday.

Defense Minister V. K. Krishna Menon, en route to the United Nations in New York, reportedly said prior to his departure that the military government had to organize and clear roads of mines and that it would be some days before journalists would be allowed to enter.

The news ban left the outside world dependent on official Indian reports of the capitulation of Portuguese rule in the city.

Menon told newsmen during a stopover in Cairo that he was returning to New York to place India's case clearly before the United Nations.

Diplomats at U.N. headquarters in New York were puzzled by Menon's haste. The General Assembly planned to recess today until mid-January, and the Soviet Union vetoed a Western cease-fire resolution in the Security Council Tuesday as India was completing its conquest. No further arraignment of India in the council or the assembly was expected.

The Communist bloc and the Asian-African nations acclaimed the action by Prime Minister Nehru's forces. The United States, Britain, and other Western nations strongly condemned it.

Menon said India had been forced to liberate the three enclaves because 14 years of negotiation with Portugal had proved futile.

Nehru told newsmen that the ease with which India took over the three enclaves and the lack of casualties — government said it lost eight dead and that Portuguese casualties were "small" — proved the "correctness of the Indian assessment of the situation."

"The colonial administration had cracked up and the people wanted and welcome India," Nehru said. He said U.N. critics of India were "obviously ignorant of the facts now as well as in the last dozen years or more."

Beeny to Close Ranch In Wake Of 2 Drownings

ST. LOUIS — (AP)—The Rev. Bill Beeny, an evangelist who has been operating an unlicensed boys ranch near Wright City, Mo., has announced he will close the ranch temporarily in the wake of the accidental drowning of two boys Sunday.

Prior to Beeny's announcement late Tuesday, Warren County Pros. Atty. Robert Henschler said he was waiting for word from Jefferson City before taking any action in regard to the ranch.

The evangelist said the children currently housed at the ranch would be placed in the homes of his parishioners and he would raise money for their support. He said he expects to improve conditions which have led the state licensing agency to deny him a permit to operate the ranch.

Despite Father's Illness

High Source Indicates JFK Will Meet With Macmillan

WASHINGTON (AP) — A high administration source said early today President Kennedy will go through with his long-planned meeting with Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, either at the appointed Bermuda site or at Palm Beach, Fla.

Kennedy hurried to Palm Beach Tuesday night to be by his father, Joseph P. Kennedy, who suffered a stroke.

His father's serious illness may force changes in the President's schedule for two days of intimate talks with Macmillan that were to begin Thursday in Bermuda.

The high-ranking informant said Kennedy had decided to see Macmillan but might ask the prime minister to come to Palm Beach so Kennedy could remain near his father. Bermuda is about two hours away by jetliner.

Macmillan was due to arrive in Bermuda this morning.

White House press secretary Pierre Salinger said Tuesday night that the original schedule still stands "at present," that Kennedy has been in touch with the British ambassador in Washington, and that a final decision will be made this morning.

Top foreign policy aides, probably including Secretary of State Dean Rusk and East-West affairs adviser Charles E. Bohlen, were expected to fly from Washington to Palm Beach during the day to brief the President in advance of the meeting regardless of where it takes place. Another foreign affairs adviser, McGeorge Bundy, special assistant to the President, accompanied Kennedy to Florida.

The original schedule called for a Kennedy stay in Bermuda of 30 hours.

Under the plan, Kennedy was to arrive at Bermuda at 11 a.m. Thursday, lunch with Macmillan at Bermuda's Government House and spend the afternoon in talks.

The two leaders were scheduled to confer through Friday with a short break for lunch.

This will be the fourth Kennedy-Macmillan meeting since Kennedy entered the White House.

Aides say whatever discussion agenda might be prepared for Kennedy and Macmillan, they doubtless will range freely over what is on their minds.

While U.S. authorities kept a secrecy blanket on what specific issues are likely to come up, it was apparent the Berlin crisis and dealings with the Soviets generally would be prime topics.

The United States and Britain must decide how they wish to probe the Russians for possible negotiating points. The American and British ambassadors in Moscow are awaiting instructions on renewing talks at the Soviet foreign ministry.

Another item is atomic testing —both the stalled U.S.-British effort to win Soviet agreement to a test ban treaty and the prospect of U.S. resumption of atmospheric

Manager Blasts Out at Ruling By High Court

NEWBURGH, N.Y. (AP)—City Manager Joseph Mitchell says the State Supreme Court action invalidating 12 of the 13 points of the city's controversial welfare code emphasizes a need for legislative changes at both the state and national levels.

"Here is a city trying to improve itself but being prevented from doing so by state and federal law," he said.

"We've had no grievances at all. We've cut taxes and the welfare budget. Our performance indicates we're right and the law should be changed."

The only point left standing after Justice Robert Doscher handed down his ruling Tuesday in the state-instigated action requires able-bodied relief recipients to report to the welfare department once a month.

Among those ruled illegal were ones denying relief payments to women continuing to have children out of wedlock and to able-bodied men refusing to work.

The plan, which turned this Hudson River Valley community into a seat of national controversy, was put into effect July 15. The 12 points were placed under a temporary injunction Aug. 18 when the state began its move for a permanent injunction.

Mitchell, who fathered the welfare code, claimed it was designed to knock chiselers off the relief rolls and to cut the city's welfare bill. He said in July that one-third of the city's annual $3 million budget went into welfare expense.

tests if a treaty is not signed. The British have some sites which could be convenient for American tests.

Still another problem facing the two allies is what share in atomic arms to give the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The importance of the nuclear questions was underlined by a Kennedy-Macmillan decision to take their top atomic advisers to the conference. For the United States, this is Atomic Energy Commission Chairman Glenn T. Seaborg. Macmillan's adviser is Sir William Penney.

Urges Woman To Pay for Ticket

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A parking citation with a $5 bill attached arrived at the municipal court traffic fines bureau Tuesday. An accompanying note said: "I have found this ticket on the sidewalk. Not knowing if the car-owner has ever seen it, I feel it would be nice if I made the remittance for him or her. "I have parked over my allotted time and never received a ticket. I can remember how grateful I was, too. "This, in a small way, may make up for it. Merry Christmas to you all. "(Signed) Donna Tsahkoff."

SEDALIA'S ONLY DRIVE-IN BANK HAS TWO NEW DRIVE-IN WINDOWS TO BETTER SERVE BUSY CUSTOMERS. THE WINDOWS ARE LOCATED AT THE REAR OF THE BUILDING SO THAT MORE CARS CAN PULL OFF THE STREET ONTO SEDALIA BANK'S LONG DRIVEWAY. TWO LINES OF TRAFFIC ARE SERVED, ONE BY THE WINDOW ON THE SIDE OF THE BANK BUILDING, THE OTHER LINE IS SERVED BY A UNIQUE "ISLAND" WINDOW BUILT IN THE MIDDLE OF THE DRIVE SO THAT IT DIVIDES THE LINE OF TRAFFIC AND SERVES THE WEST LINE.

THE DRIVE-IN WINDOWS WILL HANDLE ONLY DEPOSITS, CHECK CASHING AND PROVIDE SMALL AMOUNTS OF CHANGE.

Although it is physically possible for the Drive-In Windows to provide only three services . . . we know that they will be a great convenience to our customers as we find these services make up 90% of the transactions in a normal day's business.

If your business is note payment, Christmas Savings deposits or savings account withdrawal . . . park in one of the convenient spaces beside our bank and come inside.

SEDALIA BANK PAYS —

3% per annum

ON SAVINGS

Here's How it Works:

The Drive-In Windows offer "express" service for making deposits, cashing checks and obtaining small amounts of change.

To bank from your car at Sedalia Bank's Drive-In Windows simply turn off of West Third Street into the drive on the west side of our bank, a neon sign will direct you to the lane of traffic that is least busy or in non-peak times the sign will indicate which of the two drive-in windows is in operation.

The Drive-In Teller will speak to you from inside the window through an intercommunications system and you can state your business to her in the same manner. A sliding "car-window-high" safety drawer will carry your check or deposit to the teller and your cash, change or pass book back to you.

It's simple, quick and convenient . . . the modern way to bank!

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: Yesterday I took our 9-year-old son downtown to the dentist. A police officer on the corner smiled at Frankie and said, "Hi, Fella!"

My son grabbed my arm and said "I don't like him. He's a crook." I was so stunned I couldn't speak. The police officer heard him and walked away.

I asked Frankie what in the world he meant by that remark. He replied "The kids at school hear their folks talk about it a lot. They say cops steal things and newspapers tell all about it."

I could not deny that part of what he had heard was true. But how does one get across to a 9-year-old that he must not generalize in this way? My husband is a banker and we are very careful about the way we talk in Frankie's presence. Please advise me.—DENVER MOTHER.

Dear Denver Mother: Since your husband is a banker I suggest this approach: "Newspapers sometimes print stories about bankers who steal the depositor's money but this doesn't mean all bankers are thieves. You wouldn't want your father to be blamed for what someone else did, would you?" Explain to Frankie that the vast majority of police officers are honest, hardworking men who risk their lives daily. And they are paid, for the most part, a meager salary.

Too many excellent officers have turned in their badges because the public image of the "crooked cop" was too hard to take. If we expect to maintain an effective police force we must not allow the entire crate to be condemned just because of a few rotten eggs.

Dear Ann Landers: I've been going pretty steady with a fellow who has many fine qualities but he also has a sick sense of humor.

I'm an airline stewardess for a major line and very proud of my profession. Recently my boyfriend took me to a family dinner to meet some of his relatives. Naturally I was flattered and looked forward to making a good impression.

When he introduced me to his favorite aunt and uncle this is what he said: "I want you to meet my new girl friend, Grace. She's a glorified waitress."

I was embarrassed and hurt. He claims I'm super-sensitive and humorless. How can I get back at him?—BROKEN WING.

Dear Wing: The next time your boy friend tries to kiss you say, "Coffee, tea or milk?"

Dear Ann: Recently I married a fine man who had never been married before. I have a 9-year-old son by a previous marriage. The boy's real father has never helped us with support money and he has shown no interest in his son whatever.

The other evening some friends came to visit and I introduced the youngster in this way: "I would like to present my son George." When the guests left and we were alone my husband seemed hurt. He said I should have introduced George as "OUR" son. Since George has not been legally adopted by my husband I feel I should say "My son." Do you agree?—L.A.

Dear L.A.: Even though technically George may not be your husband's son you should be delighted that he wishes to consider the boy as much. By all means follow through with his suggestion.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope. C 1961, Field Enterprises, Inc.

Officers Plan Enforcement Of Old Blue Laws

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Authorities from the Greater Kansas City counties of Jackson, Clay and Platte met Tuesday and indicated afterward they intend enforcing Missouri's 135-year-old law against Sunday sales.

The officials issued a guide for what merchants may stay open on Sundays, and what they may sell. The law specifies against the selling of "non-essential articles."

The guide: Drug, grocery and eating establishments may remain open to sell edibles, drugs, medicines and other items of immediate necessity.

All department, appliance, furniture, clothing and hardware stores were filed Tuesday by County Atty. Stewart Tatum, charging sales of toys, women's apparel, playing cards, shoes and other non-essential articles on Sunday.

The other two informations were filed Monday.

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. helicopter crews flying into South Viet Nam's guerrilla-infested battle zones will shoot back if Communists fire on them, say Pentagon sources.

The United States has sent 40 helicopters and 400 men to fly them to South Viet Nam. They will be used, the sources said, to haul supplies and Vietnamese troops into isolated areas where the soldiers can battle Communist Viet Cong rebels.

Smith's Loss Figured As Gain In Race

WASHINGTON AP)—Backers of Rep. Richard Bolling, D-Mo., in the contest for House Democratic leadership figure today they won more than they lost from the refusal of Rep. Howard W. Smith, D-Va., to endorse Bolling.

Smith put into writing his views on the race between Bolling and Rep. Carl Albert, D-Okla., in a letter replying to Bolling's request for his support.

Neither Smith's nor Bolling's office made public the full contents of the letter. Both described it as courteous and friendly.

Smith previously had orally announced his support of Albert for the leadership job expected to be made vacant by elevation of Rep. John W. McCormack, D-Mass., to the speakership.

Smith is chairman of the Rules Committee and a leader of the Southern conservative group in the House.

Bolling, a member of the committee, is a liberal who was active in last January's fight that enlarged the committee with the intention of weakening the conservatives' hold on legislation.

Bolling's campaign lieutenants said they believed Smith's position would strengthen Bolling with some Northern state delegations composed largely of liberals.

Some of these delegations have not officially committed themselves but might find it difficult to support a Smith-backed candidate.

A decision on the leadership post will be made at a Democratic caucus tentatively set for Jan. 10, the day Congress reconvenes.

McCormack is the only candidate for the post made vacant by the death last month of Sam Rayburn of Texas, although Rep. Albert Rains, D-Ala., has said he is considering running.

NEW YORK (AP)—Movie star Errol Flynn left an estate estimated at more than $1.8 million when he died in 1959, court papers indicated Tuesday.

The estimate was listed by attorneys for the estate's administrators. Assets were said to include 839 head of cattle on Flynn's Jamaica ranch, securities, jewelry, personal effects, works of art and royalty claims.

Held Monday Night

Gifts From Abroad Feature At Rotary Christmas Party

The Rotary Christmas party, held Monday night at the Bothwell Hotel, was one filled with the true spirit of Christmas bringing to the Rotarians, their Rotary Ann and guests the feeling of close-ness of people from all over the world, and the joy of giving to help others to a brighter life.

The latter was the gift of a check for $462 that was presented by Elmer L. McClung, president, in behalf of the Rotary Club to the Crippled Children's Center. Accepting the gift for the Center was Rotarian William C. Hopkins, a member of the board of directors of the Center. The money was from the football game this fall sponsored by Rotary.

The program, under the direction of Harry Walsh, director of international service, was woven around gifts from countries all over the world that the Rotarians, who wanted to participate, gave money to Walsh to buy gifts and send them for the occasion. About half of them came early enough, but some of them didn't come and the time for the party grew closer and closer. But just a couple of days before the party everything arrived.

Then came the gift wrapping evening when some of the men, gathered and wrapped the gifts, probably the first time some of them had ever done such a thing. But they did a beautiful job and had a lot of fun seeing the gifts around the boxes and especially trying to tie the boxes.

It was one of the best international relations programs any club ever had, because the Rotary Clubs to which Walsh wrote in all of these many countries, were thrilled to hear from the Sedalia Club and whether they could, or for some reason, could not, send the gifts they answered. Walsh selected all corners of the earth to write for gifts and the response was tremendous. He pointed out that there is nothing that does so much toward peace in the world as Rotary for there are Rotary Clubs everywhere.

Talks were made by Rotarians on the various countries, some in which they themselves had been. All of the talks were filled both with excellent description of the countries and humor.

Dr. Lawrence Geiger talked on Switzerland, which he said had been a democracy for 600 years. This country, he went on to say, was the first to have public schools, and also gave us Red Cross. It has done much in establishing peace throughout the world.

He also spoke of Ireland which he said was a wonderful country and very interesting.

Dr. A. L. Walter gave an interesting talk on Lichtenstein, which he said was a very small independent country between Switzerland and Austria.

Richard Johnson spoke on Rangoon, a city in Burma. The Rotary Club in Rangoon was started in 1929, according to a letter from there.

Larry Griffith, Jr., told of the Philippines which consisted of 7,000 islands. There are 87 dialects spoken and five languages, he stated, but everybody speaks English. The Philippines have 46 Rotary Clubs and 1,800 Rotarians.

Bill Monsees spoke on Peru and said that the principal industries are agriculture and fishing. The Rotary Club of Lima was founded in 1920.

Charles Wendt talked on Kassel, Germany, where he had been home and was sponsored by the MYF of the First Methodist Church, lives just ten miles from Kassel and her father is a member of the Kassel Rotary Club.

Other members of the committee were Dr. C. G. Stauffach, P. A. Sillers, H. W. Harris, Dave Routsong and Dave Wal-lington. Places from where gifts came were Lima, Peru; Kingdom of Lichtenstein, Rangoon, Burma; Kassel, Germany; Manila, Philippines; Belfast, Ireland; Lucerne, Switzerland; Pireus, Greece; Paris, France and Vienna, Austria.

The gifts from Vienna, Austria, were selected by Volker Dittman, who spent last year in Sedalia in the Fred Lange home.

The singing of Christmas carols was led by James T. Denny with Miss Lillian Fox at the piano.

Aubrey Case gave the invocation preceding the serving of the turkey dinner.

Red poinsettia plants and red burning tapers on the tables, Christmas wreathes with lighted bells and a large Christmas tree gave the colorful and festive look of the season to the room. At each place was a candy cane and a red and silver nut basket. It was really ladies night for each was also given a huge stick of candy.

Miss Lillian Fox, pianist for the group, and Miss Hazel Lang, reporter for the Sedalia Democrat-Capital, were each presented gifts from the Club by Elmer McClung.

There were a very large number of guests present, many of them from out of various parts of the United States, here to spend the holidays with their families. Rotarians who had guests introduced them.

Campaign Cost Dilemma

Fresh demands seem sure to arise next year for new and better ways to finance our election campaigns.

The biggest cry usually is for some sort of government underwriting, on the theory that this would largely eliminate the favor-seeking pressures that result from large scale private financing.

Puerto Rico already has a law providing government campaign support, but unluckily it has been in use through only one major election. Thus a recent study of its effects yields only tentative findings.

The Puerto Rican law specifies available sums in its main body, rather than leaving this to separate appropriation. The 1960 experience was simple but striking: public funds ran out long before the campaign ended. Those parties which could find supplementary private sources did so, sometimes by methods which in fact defeated the aims of the government financing statute.

The Citizens' Research Foundation, which looked into this case history, suggests in its report that total dependence on government campaign support might not be such a good idea, anyway.

Fear is expressed that such arrangements might make the parties "creatures of government" without proper independence. Another concern is that unless private supporters bear some of the money burdens, their ties to the party will be weakened.

The Puerto Rican example, of course, is so limited both in time and in scale that it barely brushes some of the knottier problems that would confront us if we tried to put such a program on a national footing.

What with TV and jet travel, U.S. presidential campaigning has become absurdly expensive. Natural questions are how much money Congress might be willing to vote, what part of the total it might wish to assign to levels below the presidency.

Since the Congress itself is inescapably involved in the campaign, it would be on ticklish ground. To avoid charges of excess where its own members were involved, it might solve the dilemma by voting insufficient amounts for all levels.

In this event, and perhaps by deliberate choice as a "sensible course," private financing would still be indicated as an important supplement.

That would pose anew the same old puzzle of the favor-seekers, though in somewhat less intense form.

Both the Puerto Rican study and other U.S. analyses recommend, as part of the cure, vastly broadened individual private support. It's a fine idea, but nobody has yet offered persuasive evidence that, realistically, it could be relied on to defray a major proportion of today's mountainous campaign costs. We may one day need government help just to get the bills paid at all.

"I Told the Sucker It Wasn't Loaded"

The World Today

The Hobgoblin of Little Minds

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—

The world's statesmen, by Ralph Waldo Emerson's reasoning, all have large minds. He said consistency is the hobgoblin of little minds, adored by statesmen among others.

Under this definition, as their United Nations' record shows, there is nothing little about present-day statesmen. For some their only consistency is their inconsistency. A few examples prove it for them.

When the North Korean Communists invaded South Korea in 1950 the United States, Britain, France and practically everyone else, including India, voted for action against the invaders.

Russia, which got its signals mixed, was absent at the time but came back strong by announcing it would not try to get North Korea to call off the invasion because the Soviets were against butting into others' affairs.

But, when the United States blockaded North Korea, Russia called this aggression, even though the United Nations had voted for action. And Egypt voted against helping South Korea. It said this was all just a West-East rumple.

India, which went along on condemning North Korea, which is far away from the land of Prime Minister Nehru, voted against condemning Red China, which is a next-door neighbor, when it attacked the U.N. forces.

Things got a little mixed up a few years later.

In 1956—when British-French-Israeli forces decided to invade Egypt—the land of the pharaohs, which wouldn't condemn the Red invasion of North Korea, went running to the United Nations for help against her own invaders.

In this case, for a change, the United States and Russia joined up against Britain and France. But in the Security Council Britain and France, which had condemned North Korea for invading South Korea, now vetoed a resolution against themselves for doing the same thing to Egypt.

India also had something to say in the General Assembly. Although refusing to be unpleasant to Red China for going into Korea, India joined the United States and Russia in calling on France and Britain to quit Egypt.

On this one the United States had a little trouble deciding what it ought to do. At first it considered not voting at all.

But, while all this was going on in 1956, and at the very same time, Russia, outraged at Britain and France for attacking Egypt, invaded Hungary and crushed the Hungarian revolt against the Communist bosses.

The Security Council which included the United States, Britain and France, besides Russia—was for condemning the Russian attack on Hungary. But the Russians vetoed that.

It was different in the General Assembly.

There the United States and a host of other countries—along with Britain and France, then under fire for what they had done to Egypt—teamed up overwhelmingly to condemn Russia on Hungary.

All Russia could do in this case, since there is no veto in the assembly, was vote no. But Egypt, which wanted U.N. action against Britain and France, wouldn't vote yes or no on Russia. It just abstained. So did Nehru's India.

Then the United States got its neck caught in a door when it backed the rebel invasion of Fidel Castro's Cuba. Russia demanded this country be condemned. The United Nations wouldn't go for that but Nehru criticized the United States by calling its action intervention.

Next in the history of inconsistency came Nehru himself when India this week attacked and overran Portuguese Goa.

Once more Britain and France teamed up in the Security Council to pass a resolution calling on India to get out of Goa. But Russia vetoed that.

And Egypt, which had hollered bloody murder when it was attacked, not only joined Russia in voting against a rebuke to India but demanded that Portugal give up Goa.

If all this makes you dizzy, just think how the statesmen must feel.

Name Your Candidate For 'Most Annoying Noise'

By RUTH MILLETT

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The scraping of a knife against a saucepan is the most annoying sound in the world. That's right.

At least that is the conclusion reached by researchers at England's National Physical Laboratory after an exhaustive study of the effects of unpleasant noises on human beings.

Somehow, it doesn't seem possible that sound could have won first place if the scientists had tested for any of the following:

The sound of a telephone when you're in the bathtub and there's no one else in the house to answer it.

The sound of a TV housewife squealing over how light and bright her laundry is now that she has switched to the sponsor's washday product.

The sound of auto horns from cars piled up behind you when your car stalls at a traffic light. Sound track laughter that splits its sides when the TV comedian is anything but funny.

The screech of brakes that stops the car driven by a smart aleck who roars right up to you when you are crossing a busy intersection.

The warning clap of thunder that heralds a shower just as you are ready to float out to a party in your most perishable gown.

The bloodcurdling whine that means your battery is down and your car isn't going to start when you're in a rush to keep an appointment.

The long, lonely rings of an unanswered telephone when you have put in an important long distance call.

Surely NOTHING scraping against ANYTHING could be as annoying as any of these sounds to the human ear.

Head and Heart Team In Public Assistance Overhaul

By PETER EDSON

Washington Correspondent

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON — Overhaul of the 25-year-old, $4 billion-a-year federal-state assistance programs is in the works. This includes not only the Kennedy administration health insurance plan for the aged—to replace the Kerr-Mills plan adopted during the Eisenhower administration—but also a complete revamping of the aid to dependent children programs.

This is to be renamed the "Bureau of Family Services" and the emphasis is to be put on rehabilitation to get more people off relief and into useful employment.

Many people will say it's about time. Some contend that the whole business of relief should be abolished, just because of abuses in a small minority of the cases handled.

Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater, for instance, says in his book, "The Conscience of a Conservative," that "the recipient of welfare... mortgages himself to the federal government" and eliminates "any feeling of responsibility for his own family and that of his neighbors." His conclusion is:

"Let welfare be a private concern." Or, "if we deem public intervention necessary, let the job be done by local and state authorities that are incapable of accumulating the vast political power that is so inimical to our liberties."

Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Abraham Ribicoff maintains that the states run the programs now.

The federal government, he says, merely supplies matching funds for state programs after they're approved by Washington as meeting certain minimum standards. The states act as transmission belts to pass the money to local government to hand out.

As Governor of Connecticut for six years, Ribicoff had to deal with public assistance programs first hand. He says they caused him more concern than anything else. And he came back to Washington as head of HEW determined to correct them.

The 10 new regulations he has just announced for administering aid to dependent children are his first step.

Some additional legislation will be requested of the new Congress and another $17 million will be required—half federal, half state funds—to put his reforms in effect. But, "We're trying to save on a long-range basis," he says, "and we can bring down the costs of relief."

Public assistance programs were born in the depths of the great depression, when private charity and local governments found themselves unable to cope with their problems. They dropped off during World War II years, but have been on the increase ever since. And there is no predicting where they will go if they continue in the present wrong directions.

Public assistance administrators are waking up to the fact that they now have dependent children on their rolls who are the third generation in families that have been on relief for a quarter of a century.

The problem is to get such of these people as are able to work off the relief roles and onto some paying job. Many of them are uneducated and untrained for any work today. There is no incentive to get off easy relief money and onto a payroll.

A key trouble here, says Ribicoff, is that there aren't enough competent people administering public assistance. Of 32,000 social workers, fewer than 5 per cent have been trained for their jobs. Such social workers as there are have too much to do. Instead of having, say 150 cases in their care, they have 300. They can't possibly make the rounds.

One of the goals in the new Ribicoff plan is to give incentives to the states to train more social workers, then have the states adopt standards that relief families be visited at least once every three months in efforts to get them off relief.

It is of course hard to get tough about people on relief at Christmas time. When Ribicoff was asked if his new problem was a "businessman's approach" to public assistance, he was stopped for a moment. Then he observed, "There's a heck of a lot businessmen don't know about government. This is a hardheaded and compassionate heart approach."

Timely Forward Step for Alliance

By DREW PEARSON

EN ROUTE THROUGH SOUTH AMERICA—President Kennedy's quick trip through Venezuela and Colombia may mark a historic turning point in Pan American relations. If so, it will be just in time.

To understand the full contrast of what Kennedy did, you had to be with him under a huge Ceiba tree at Lamorita in central Venezuela where he inaugurated a new agrarian settlement. In front of the American President was a crowd of gnarled and weatherbeaten farmers just in from the fields, their battered trucks lined up neatly in the rear. From the left came the pungent odor of cow manure where yearling heifers and a barnyard of ducks were supposed to be on display but protested nervously as the 21-gun salute roared to greet the American President.

That President, perfectly tailored, educated at Harvard, and son of a man who once helped finance Senator McCarthy, stood beside the President of Venezuela who was once a member of the Communist party and whose hands still show the marks of that awful bomb explosion in which Dominican Dictator Trujillo tried to kill Bentancourt. Together they talked about agrarian reform and land settlement.

The contrast was not merely in the clothes, manner and background of the two presidents, but in history.

It was only two years ago—up until the latter part of the Eisenhower administration—that the United States flatly barred loans to Latin countries which nationalized their minerals, their petroleum or their lands.

In contrast the young President of the same United States which previously frowned on socialization said:

"Here in Venezuela you are carrying out a bold, progressive program of social reform and economic development. My government welcomes the chance to help you in this effort... the people of my country will share in this far-reaching program by making available more loans to build rural homes... this program is at the heart of our Alliance for Progress. For no real progress is possible without basic social reforms—land reforms."

He then handed out land certificates to the farmers and their families.

Bentancourt's Stability

All this was done standing beside President Bentancourt, whom the Eisenhower administration had barred from political exile in the United States—a man nonetheless who has brought genuine Democracy and considerable stability to Venezuela.

There was a further contrast when Jacqueline Kennedy, exquisitely dressed in a Paris-fashioed suit and speaking perfect Spanish, told the weatherbeaten farmers: "I know how deeply my husband feels when he has told you it's right for every man to feed his family and to make a living."

President Kennedy makes a great impression on these good-will trips and he should make more of them. If this one helps turn the tide in Latin America it will be just in time, for most of South America is drifting dangerously toward their own homemade brand of communism.

Cooperative Buildup

The inside fact is it required an intensive publicity buildup by the government, the American community and the Catholic Church to prepare an adequate reception. Every priest emphasized the fact that Kennedy is the first Catholic President of the United States, batteries of night-workers painted out Communist signs, "Kennedy No, Jackie Si," and radio and TV commercial spots were pre-empted for goodwill spot messages on the Kennedy visit.

Hatred by minority in Venezuela runs deep. And it's definitely a minority, but nevertheless a determined and bitter minority which sees Castroism fading with the people largely because of social reforms and the Alliance for Progress. This minority was determined to make a last stand against Kennedy to show that Castroism is not fading entirely.

To do this, robbery squads began holding up banks several weeks ago in order to finance the minority's coffers. Castro followers managed to collect 1,750,000 bolivars. The pro-Castroites were divided into three groups—demolition squads which bombed American stores and offices, robbery squads, and propaganda squads.

"Death! Death! Death!"

One demolition squad attacking a Creole gas station was offered its money but refused it, saying "We are a demolition rule, not a robbery squad." They left a note reading: "This station is being blown up as an act of retribution of the visit of octopus Kennedy in his attempt to take over our people and bring them under the imperialist rule. Death to Kennedy! Death! Death! Death!"

Because of the bombing, every Sears, Roebuck store now is equipped with buckets of wet sand to extinguish any bombs tossed into the premises. On one occasion a local radio station was seized and a stream of abuse was poured out against the United States over its air waves. On another occasion two "Molotov Cocktails" were thrown into the presses of the Caracas Daily Journal, an English-language newspaper.

None of this had any real effect on the Caracas population however, except in the end to win sympathy for President Kennedy. And the night of his Caracas visit the Plaza Silencio, where anti-government riots start, witnessed the amazing spectacle of crowds cheering "Viva Kennedy! Viva Jacqueline!" It was an amazing personal conquest.

Physical Fitness

The United States Seventh Army in Germany is cutting out many of the frills in order to get 100,000 men ready for combat.

A frill in the Army does not seem like a frill to the average citizen. For instance, instead of warning the troops about an inspection several weeks in advance, commanders now give a minimum of four hours. Thus the driver of a jeep will not be able to spend hours polishing his vehicle, his shoes or his rifle.

The Seventh Army is attacking a popular enemy—too much weight. Under the motto "Get it off or get out." "It is no good having well trained soldiers if they cannot stand up under combat." General Davidson told his officers and men.

The soldiers must be able to crawl forty yards in thirty-six seconds, run over a horizontal ladder having at least thirty-six rungs, negotiate a dodge, run and jump course in twenty-six and a half seconds, run a mile in eight and a half minutes and throw a grenade.

Anyone who thinks army life is soft had better take a look at the new rules of the Seventh.

Bears as Guinea Pigs

A grizzly bear might be the only passenger in an airplane. Let us hope he is a friendly bear.

Researchers in the Federal Aviation Agency have suggested using bears to help determine whether seats in airliners should be installed facing the rear of the plane.

They hope to find out from the bear whether tolerance to abrupt deceleration, as in an airplane crash, or the ditching of a high speed jet liner, can be increased by reversing the seats.

The bear is chosen for a possible test because of his skeletal structure so closely resembling humans. The bear will be given high speed rides on a Navy catapult which will come to a sudden stop and his reaction, if he lives, will then be contemplated.

The Research Institute has been in operation a little over a year. The "bear test" is only one of sixty current future projects aimed at increasing safety in civil air operations.

Looking Backward...

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

A Schien-owned truck being driven from Kansas City to Sedalia was hijacked about 10 miles west of Warrensburg at night. Hijackers detached the trailer, mired it in a field with the truck driver, Robert Stevens, locked inside. The men then drove off with the tractor part. The driver later kicked a hole in the trailer and escaped to notify W. A. Schien, 1112 West Seventh street. The men took nothing from the trailer. The tractor was found abandoned in Kansas City the next day.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Two hundred persons were present for the presentation of a charter by International Rotary to the new Sedalia Rotary club meeting in Liberty Club. Delegations from many clubs in the seven-teenth district were here. Sedalia charter No. 1032 was presented by Governor Ross Burns to President William Powell, Jr. Other officers are: Vice-President, Arthur Meuschke; Secretary, Guy Peabody; Treasurer, Emil Zoernig; Directors, Robert Johns and W. R. Thomas.

CHARLOTTE OBSERVER: A Washout. — Doctor Clarence Cohn, biochemistry expert, has been doing some heavy thinking about heavy eating.

The way he figures it, people should eat from six to nine light meals a day. If eaters could do this, he says, they would have more energy, a less "bloated" feeling after meals, less irritability and feel "psychologically fitter to face the pressures of daily life."

We guess they would—with the exception of Mama, who would face the psychological pressure of washing dishes nine times a day.

Christmas Present To Detroit by VFW

DETROIT (AP) — The city of Detroit got an early and unexpected Christmas present Tuesday. The Veterans of Foreign Wars gave the city $5,000. The money was part of $25,000 the city appropriated to help finance the VFW's 61st national convention in August, 1960 in Detroit.

The VFW spent $200,999 on its convention. It had a $5,000 surplus, and decided to give it to the city.

Widow Poisons Her Sister And Brother-in-law

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Detectives say a widow has admitted poisoning her sister and brother-in-law but said she regretted their deaths were "so slow and painful."

Officers filed murder charges Tuesday against Eunice Beynon, 63. She was held without bond.

Mrs. Beynon's brother-in-law, Frank Pahlman, 66, an insurance man, died Nov. 20. His wife died nine days later.

Capt. R. A. Benfer said Mrs. Beynon signed a statement admitting she put rat poison in jars of water kept in the refrigerator at the Pahlman home, where Mrs. Beynon also lived.

She said her sister had been opening her mail and eavesdropping on her telephone calls.

Dog Food Jingle Contest Prize To Feline Lover

NEW YORK (AP)—Miss Cecile P. Wulff, a cat lover supreme, won a $4,000 prize in a dog food jingle contest.

And if you think she was surprised, think of the contest representative who delivered the check to her Brooklyn residence Tuesday.

"We have to take 'em as they come," he mumbled after catching a glimpse of the nine felines lounging about the apartment. Miss Wulff shares with her sister, Miss Harriet Wulff.

The beaming, winner advised him happily that the money would go a long way towards keeping Baby, Spotty, Aggie, Dolly, Doty Hawkins, Froggy, Stacy, Nicely and Nanny in food.

"Unfortunately, we (Ralston Purina Co.) do not manufacture cat food," he sighed.

Contest participants had to say which of five dog cartoons was funniest then supply the last line of a four-line jingle about dogs.

Miss Wulff wouldn't disclose any of the eight entries she submitted.

Neither would the contest representative. If he did, he explained, thousands of losers all over the country would raise a howl attuned to the belief that their entries were better.

The Wulff sisters had a dog until about a year ago. But as the cat clan grew, the canine became increasing melancholy and finally died.

Bea Johnson Guest Speaker

Talk On Russian Interview Heard By Sorosis Members

That Russia expects to have you? Communism take over in America in five or ten years was what Bea Johnson found when she first interviewed the Russian leaders in 1955 and again in 1957. This she told the members of Sorosis Monday afternoon in her talk at Heard Memorial Club House, on "The Russian Rulers Told Me."

Mrs. Johnson, who was a Warrensburg girl, now lives in Kansas City, and, heading a group of women representing the press, radio and television, was the first person to interview the Russian leaders and was even allowed to take tape recordings of the interviews.

But they had something in mind, she pointed out. They thought American women were easily influenced, they thought they were interested in peace and babies, and through them could get a foothold in America. And so they granted the interviews even though they would not even let a foremost male reporter cross the threshold.

Bulgarian, then premier of the Soviet Union, said the greatest force they had in Russia was their women. The women in this country can be a great force, too, she pointed out, banded together and working toward bringing a revival of the fine and good in America, to believe in America and pray for America.

She urged "People to People" organizations in Sedalia where a sister city is selected some place in the world and the people of two cities would write to each other, would send their newspapers and magazines, where homemakers of one city would write to homemakers of the other city and tell of their families, their lives, their activities.

She stressed what a fine thing it would be for Sedalia to have a flag flying from every building on Flag Day and other days when the flag should be flown, and if every person in the town would vote on election day.

The Russians see that such a small percentage of voters go to the polling places on election days and they believe that the people of America are not free to vote. That the great number are not allowed to vote.

When someone in Russia asked her what Thanksgiving Day meant in her country she told them that it was a day set aside for giving for the freedoms of the country—freedom of speech, of religion, of the press, freedom to vote—and they laughed at her. She was trying to tell them, they said, the people in America were free to vote when the American papers said that only a small percentage of people voted. If they had an opportunity for free vote why didn't they use it.

"We know what your free vote means," they told her.

Mrs. Johnson, also, told what effect the movies were having on other countries, and how the movies rated at the top did not at all depict the life in America—but that is what people in other countries are seeing. Some of the magazines and comic books are the same way and are being used by Communists in other countries against us. It is time to do something about these things, she said. To write to your Congressman and tell him there must be something done to prevent these things in this country.

We need to let people of other countries see that we want peace and friendship with them, not only by what we do when we are in other countries, but what we do here. Then she told the story of the Japanese man who came to this country many years ago and because of his color was shunned everywhere he went. He couldn't even get a shave. And what happened. He was bitter and he was the man who gave the orders for attack on Pearl Harbor.

Mrs. Johnson told what she found in the Soviet Union, and her husband, Dean Johnson, who accompanied her to Sedalia, showed pictures as she spoke. Mothers, she said, are given 53 days off when they have a baby and then they must return to work and the babies are put in nurseries. Their mothers can take them home at night, and later when they go to school it is the same way. But an unusually bright child is taken over by the government to be educated in science.

The youth are all wonderful specimen of physical fitness. The training is started from the time the babies are a few weeks old. A nurse takes them out of their beds, strips them and then takes them by the arms and works them back and forth with force counting. Then she takes their feet and works their legs the same way. As they grow older they are always bowling, fencing or doing some kind of exercise.

When Mrs. Johnson saw how the nurse was giving the exercises to the child she exclaimed: "What are you doing, that is just a baby."

The nurse smiled. "Yes, she said, 'but when Communism comes to America in a few years you want your leader strong, don't

The children study real hard, because if they can make good they can go to high school and then if they are brilliant enough to get through high school they can go to college and study science. If they can qualify for scientists or teachers they may even be able to have a three room apartment.

They put those who peddle narcotics in Russia up against a wall and shoot them—no trial or anything. When she asked about this Mrs. Johnson said they told her it was against the law to have narcotics in Russia. In America she said, they fined the top of a narcotic ring here $75,000, and he went off laughing. He made more than that on the high school students throughout this country in a very short period of time and he just went on directing the narcotic ring.

She was told that the women of Russia were relieved from drudgery of housework so they could be creative. Creative, she said, in sweeping streets and laying bricks. They do their housework when they get home at night.

Mrs. Johnson has made talks all over the United States. She has interviewed not only Russian leaders but leaders of other countries, taking groups with her. She will soon leave with a group on another trip to Russia.

Mrs. Johnson was introduced by Mrs. John Herring, art and drama chairman.

The meeting was presided over by Mrs. James E. McNeil, president.

Mrs. Harold Anderson announced that the next meeting would be the new members program on Jan. 15 and there would be no luncheon.

The Mapewood Extension Club entertained neighbors and friends at the Mapewood Community Hall for a 7 o'clock dinner.

The group was welcomed by Mrs. Allen Cusick, president, who announced the dinner which was served following the invocation by Mrs. Walter Banning.

The hall was festive with Christmas greenery, a tall, beautiful lighted tree that tipped the ceiling. Members of the decorating committee were Mr. and Mrs. Allen Cusick and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Salmons.

After the dinner while waiting for arrival of Santa Claus, a choir of children, with Mrs. Carl Harvey Landes at the piano, led in singing Christmas carols, while the youngest member, six months old Sherry Salmons, also, added her voice.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Earl Jackson.

IN GRIP OF CUSTOM—A new and utterly charming technique of eating toast with chopsticks is introduced by Hro Duk Yoo, 9-year-old member of a Korean War orphan choir visiting Detroit. She doesn't trust the unwieldy tableware we use—and fingers wouldn't do at all. So chopsticks it is.

Books Should Be Selected With the Receiver In Mind

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Having trouble winding up your Christmas shopping?

Well, why not give a gift that costs little to buy, but—if well-chosen—links both the giver and the receiver with a loyalty of the moment that lasts a lifetime?

What else but a book?

The main thing is to pick the right book for the right person.

As a potential guide, we present—all in fun—a suggested list of gift books for famous figures who made news in 1961:

"God Had a Dog"—Lassie.
"The Conduct of War"—Prime Minister Nehru.
"Chairman of the Bored"—David Susskind.
"My Life in Court"—James R. Hoffa.

"I Should Have Kissed Her More"—Arthur Miller.
"The Age of Reason Begins"—Jayne Mansfield.
"The Empty Canvas"—Grandma Moses, in memoriam at 101.
"But Not in Shame"—The Irish troops in the Congo.
